

Central American Republics Approve Parley Suggestion

While Mexico Is Not Invited, Attitude Will Be Entirely Sympathetic, Is Indication.

PARLEY WILL SOLVE NUMEROUS PROBLEMS

Acceptances Quickly Expected From Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Guatemala, Costa Rica.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, October 24.—Informal communications from the five Central American governments invited by the United States to meet in conference here in December for discussion of arms limitation projects and other matters indicate early acceptance of the invitations and appointment of the five delegations. There is no doubt that Secretary Hughes' action, taken as it was virtually at the request of the five governments, has been received in Central America with gratification. Formal acceptance in some cases may be delayed through the necessity of securing approval of either cabinet or congress.

The American invitation exclusively occupied attention in Pan-American diplomatic circles today. Both among the diplomats and in government circles the feeling prevails that a step has been taken which may bring results of a far-reaching nature with respect to international relations in the entire western hemisphere. Whether the Central American conference will prove a stepping stone to subsequent treatment of all Pan-American problems in a similar way, it was said, must rest on the work of the Central American delegations when they gather in Washington in December.

From the American viewpoint the forthcoming conference is expected to have immediate and decisive reaction toward the solution of many vexing problems now troubling the relations of the Central American group, Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Guatemala and Costa Rica.

Objects Simple. The direct objects of the conference, as stated in Mr. Hughes' invitation, are comparatively simple. Even the arms limitation suggestion for Central America should not develop insurmountable obstacles, it is said, inasmuch as the proposal is made for the backing of the United States government. The actual military forces maintained by any of the five countries are small. None of them maintains a navy.

There was every indication here today that while Mexico has not been invited to the conference, since that country is not regarded as a Central American nation, yet Mexico's attitude would be entirely sympathetic with the purposes of the conference. That view was taken at the Mexican embassy. Should an agreement be worked out to supplant and strengthen the Central American treaty of amity signed by the five countries in Washington in 1907, it might be made contingent by the conference on some formal expression of approval and support from Mexico and from the United States.

In reply to a question by The Associated Press in this connection, Manuel C. Tellez, Mexican charge, said he had little doubt his government would "reassume the part she played in 1907" as to Central America should the conference invite such action. The charge made it plain, however, that his government as yet had no official knowledge as to the conference.

Chief Interest. Aside from the arms limitation discussion, chief interest in which will attach to suggestions that may arise for something in the nature of a guarantee of that phase of the pact by the United States as sponsor of the conference, the direct proposal for establishment of a Central American tribunal inquiry attracted widest attention. Apparently re-establishment of the old Central American court of justice, known technically as the arbitration court of Cartage, is foreshadowed. To what extent the mission of the old court may be supplemented and its decisions rendered more binding must await action of the conference itself.

Among questions which it is expected may be treated directly by the conference itself is that of tariff arbitration among the Central American countries and possibly the adoption of a customs union agreement which has been favored in Central America as a possible first step toward a direct union between those countries. For the United States, it can be said with authority, that the formation of such a union, is not the American object in calling the conference, nor would any proposal find approval in the Washington government.

VICTOR E. INNES NOW MUST FIGHT MAIL FRAUD COUNT

Having Served Sentence for Larceny After Trust From Nelms Girls, Arrested on U. S. Charge.

DECLARES INNOCENCE OF LAST INDICTMENT

Alleged Slayer of Atlanta Girls Released Tuesday From Chaingang—Time Off for Good Behavior.

Another chapter was begun Tuesday in the most baffling mystery ever recorded in the annals of Atlanta, when Victor E. Innes, formerly an attorney of Portland, Ore., after having served his sentence of seven years in the Fulton county chaingang for larceny after trust in connection with misuse of funds entrusted to him by Mrs. Eloise Nelms Dennis, was released from the Bellwood prison camp and a minute later rearrested on a federal charge of using the mails to defraud.

The latest episode in the life of Innes revives the famous unsolved case of the Nelms sisters, who mysteriously disappeared and who police the country over believe were murdered. No trace of the missing sisters, who left Atlanta in 1914, ostensibly for the purpose of joining Innes in San Antonio, Texas, has ever been found.

Time Off for Behavior. Innes completed his chaingang sentence Tuesday morning, having obtained a total of 510 days off the original 7 years' incarceration for good behavior. As he was notified that his sentence had expired, Deputy United States Marshal L. E. Bishop stepped up and placed him under arrest on charges of violating Section 2082 of the penal code of the United States, which includes a clause relative to the use of mails with intent to defraud.

Without a trace of emotion Innes accompanied the deputy marshal to the office of O. C. Fuller, clerk of the United States district court, where he was informed that his bond had been set at $3,000. He was remanded to the Fulton tower in default of bail. The indictment against Innes bore the date of April 5, 1919, a bench warrant having been issued at that time in connection with the indictment. This was served on Innes at the expiration of his chaingang sentence.

Refusing to discuss the federal charges except to declare that he was innocent, Innes asserted that he would have a determined fight for his liberty. "I am as innocent of this federal charge as I am of the charge which caused me to serve five and a-half years in the Fulton chaingang," said Innes. "It certainly requires all of the philosophy and strength of character a man possesses to pay the penalty for a crime which he did not commit. I trust that I will have true.

Britain Refuses Clearance Papers To Bonded Ships

British Law Demands Brand—U. S. Law Says "No." What to Do?

New York, October 24.—The President Harding, of the United States line, arrived today from England bringing under lock and seal five gallons of brandy, which the captain had to take on board in Tilbury Docks, London, in order to comply with British laws covering the granting of clearance papers.

Captain Penbury said that after he had unloaded the ship's supply of liquor in London in compliance with wireless orders from the shipping board he was refused clearance papers by the British board of trade, which insisted that he comply with the law requiring ships to carry a gallon of brandy for each one hundred steerage passengers carried.

There was no sickness on board during the trip so that the brandy remained under seal throughout the voyage, the captain said.

Unguarded Language Trips Bootleggers Disguised as Nuns

Fort Covington, N. Y., October 24.—"What a hell of a place to have a blowout."

This pious exclamation from one of two women dressed as sisters of mercy, overheard by a revenue officer, caused him to examine their automobile when it stalled on the Canadian side of the border near here. He found liquor with a bootleg value of about $20,000.

Lane Letters Give Inside Story on Wilson Cabinet

Queer Sidelights on Former President Are Revealed

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Boston, October 24.—A series of history making letters, describing in detail the American war cabinet and giving an intimate picture of Woodrow Wilson as he appeared while presiding over the secret meetings of his official family, is made public today. The letters, written by the late Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior, of the cabinet of President Wilson from 1913 to 1920, have been collected and edited by his widow, Anne Wintermute Lane, and have been published by Houghton Mifflin company. The volume is just off the press.

The correspondence reveals, among other things, how the president frequently lost patience with the tremendous problems confronting him, and how at other times discouragement crowded him to such a degree that he was prompted to turn bitterly on his advisers when they failed to agree with him.

The letters gave a description of Mr. Wilson's attitude on preparedness before America entered the war; tell how he regarded the proposal to arm merchant ships, describe his opposition to anything approaching the "code duello" spirit at a time when the United States was neutral, and then, when great questions were pressing for decision, tell how he encouraged his cabinet to talk of trivialities while he went along on his own course to solve the huge problems facing his administration.

On Preparedness. "The president said he didn't wish to see either side win—for both had been equally indifferent to the rights of neutrals," Mr. Lane wrote to his brother on February 17, 1917, commenting on a particularly animated cabinet discussion.

On the subject of preparedness even a few months before the United States entered the war, Mr. Lane quoted President Wilson as being "not in sympathy." Writing again to his brother, February 16, 1917, Mr. Lane said:

"The army and navy are so set last night he said he was not in sympathy with any great preparedness—that Europe would be mired and money-poor by the end of the war." Continuing, Mr. Lane added a few observations of his own.

"The army and navy are so set and stereotyped and stand-pat that I am almost hopeless as to moving them to the wise, large and wholesome job," he wrote. "They are governed by red tape worse than any union. The chief of staff fell asleep at our meeting today, Mars and Morpheus in one."

Again to his brother, February 25, Secretary Lane wrote: "On Friday we had one of the most animated sessions of the cabinet that I suppose has ever been held under this or any other president. It all arose out of a very innocent question of mine as to whether it was true that the wives of the American consuls on leaving Germany had been stripped naked, given an add bath to detect writing on their flesh, and subjected to other indignities."

"Lansing answered that it was true. Then I asked Houston about the bread riots in New York. This led to a discussion of the great problem which we had all been afraid to raise—why shouldn't we send our ships out with guns and convoys? Daniels said we must not convey—that would be dangerous. (Think of a secretary of the navy telling of danger!)"

Entitled to Facts.

"The president said the country was not willing that we should take any risks of war. I said that I got no such sentiment out of the country. The president took as a suggestion that we should work up a propaganda of hatred against Germany. Of course, I said I had no such idea, but I felt that in a democracy the people were entitled to know the facts. McAdoo, Houston and Redfield joined me. The president turned on them bitterly, especially on McAdoo, and reproached all of us with appealing to the spirit of the 'code duello.' We couldn't get the idea out of his head that we were bent on pushing the country into war. Houston talked of resigning after the meeting. McAdoo will, I believe, I tried to smooth them down by recalling our past experiences with the president. We have had to push and push to get him to take any forward step. He comes out right but he is slower than a glacier—and things are mighty disagreeable whenever anything has to be done."

In addition to his voluminous correspondence, which included letters to virtually every person of importance in the United States, Mr. Lane made many notes on incidents occurring in his daily life. Among these were copious comments on the cabinet meetings. In one of these notes, dated March 1, 1918, he said:

"Yesterday, at cabinet meeting, we had the first real talk of war in weeks, yes, in months. Burleson brought up the matter of Russia—would we support Japan in taking Siberia, or even Vladivostok? Should we join Japan actively—in force?"

"Not Allies." "The president said 'no' for the very practical reason that we had no ships. We had difficulty in providing for our men in France and for our allies. (The president never uses this word, saying that we are not allies.)"

In a note dated March 12, 1918, Secretary Lane wrote: "Nothing talked of at cabinet that would interest a nation, a family, or a child. No talk of war. No talk of Russia or Japan. Talk by McAdoo about some bills in congress, by the president about giving the veterans of the Spanish war leave, with pay, to attend their annual encampment. And he treated this seriously, as if it were a matter of first importance."

COAL PROBE BODY IS SEEKING TRAIL OF PROFITEERING

To Decide Early in Work Whether Present Prices for Anthracite Coal Are Exorbitant.

COMMISSION ADOPTS PLAN OF PROCEDURE

Will Hold No Lengthy Hearings at Present, But Work on Information Already in Hand.

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, October 24.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—One of the first questions to be determined by the coal fact-finding commission, provided for by congress and recently appointed by President Harding, will be whether there is any profiteering in anthracite coal prices now being charged to the consumer, and if so who is guilty.

The commission, it was stated, will start with no theory that there are unreasonable charges made, but with the purpose of giving the public complete and accurate information as to existing conditions. It is insisted that the public is entitled to this information, and it is asserted that the commission will publish the facts after a careful survey of the industry.

Meet Coal Men. Full organization of the commission is expected within the next two weeks, Chairman John Hays Hammond planning to have things well under way by then.

Conferences have already been held with representatives of the United Mine Workers and with bituminous operators, the latter of which were in attendance today. Thursday a conference will be held with the anthracite operators. These were informal conferences and merely for the purpose of making plans for the study to be made by the commission.

With the idea of pushing the work as rapidly as possible, Chairman Hammond has adopted the plan, for the present at least, of holding no hearings or meetings before the commission. Immediate use, however, will be made of information gained from other investigations.

As outlined now, the plan of procedure is to be as follows: First—Assignment of experts to the information gained in previous investigations, such as that made by the senate committee on reconstruction, of which former Senator Kenyon was the active chairman. Experts will be ordered to compile all the facts which will be important and pertinent to the work of this commission.

Second—Organization of experts to specialize on different subjects with

He made a plea for better understanding and relationship between the two sections.

Personnel of New British Cabinet Announced by Law

STATE IN CHARGE IN INVESTIGATION OF CHOIR MURDERS

Deputy Attorney-General Gives Out No Information on Hall-Mills Mystery, However.

PLEASED BY RESULTS TO DATE, HE ASSERTS

Woman Is Discovered, Alleged Eye-Witness of the Killings, On Nearby Farm.

New Brunswick, N. J., October 24. (By The Associated Press.)—Deputy Attorney-General Wilbur A. Mott draped himself in robes of silence today and plunged into the investigation of the Hall-Mills murder by Attorney-General McCran.

Mr. Mott spent the forenoon closeted with County Prosecutor Beckman, of Somerset, learning what the county authorities have done and learned since the bodies of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Rheinhardt Mills were found on September 16. This afternoon Prosecutor Stricker, of Middlesex county, joined the conference.

When it was over, Mr. Mott issued a signed statement saying he had spent the day going over the case and that he was greatly pleased to find the county authorities already had accomplished so much in their investigation. He declined to make any comment on any angle of the case.

Newsman men were particular to ask Mr. Mott about the story that Mrs. Jane Gibson, a widowed farmer, out riding a male in quest of thieves who had looted her corn patch, had witnessed the murders.

Prosecutors Beckman and Stricker also refused to discuss this angle of the case but it was learned from another source that the prosecutors had had the story for several days. Efforts to interview Mrs. Gibson ended ignominiously for the newspapermen. She closed the doors of her little house and released three big dogs which declined to permit the reporters to alight from their taxicabs.

While Mrs. Gibson was said to have witnessed the shooting, it was said that she was unable, because of the darkness, to identify the man and woman who, she said, made up the murder party. She gave the authorities, however, one good clue to their identity.

After the minister and choir singer had been slain, she was quoted as saying, the man bent over the prostrate figures—presumably to cut Mrs. Mills' throat—and his accomplice cried out:

"Oh, _____," mentioning the Christian name of the supposed slayer.

List of Ministers in New Regime Given Out Tuesday by Premier Bonar Law.

CURZON IS SECRETARY FOR FOREIGN AFFAIRS

All Older Parties Fear 'Strength of Laborites in Coming General Election.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

London, October 24.—Premier Bonar Law tonight issued a list of the principal members of his ministry. His own name is not mentioned in the official list, which leaves it to be inferred that he takes no other office than that of prime minister and first lord of the treasury, the latter being a post without specified duties beyond those attaching to the premiership.

Marquis Curzon retains his post as secretary for foreign affairs and will be leader of the house of lords. Viscount Peel retains the Indian secretariat.

Stanley Baldwin, as expected, goes to the exchequer, but it has not yet been announced whether he will be leader in the house of commons.

The Earl of Derby at the war office resumes a post which he has held before. The prime minister had the greatest difficulty with the law of fices.

Who Is American. The attorney general, Douglas Macgregor Hogg, is new to his office. He was formerly closely associated with Lord Curzon. His wife is the daughter of Judge Trimble Brown, of Nashville, Tenn., and widow of the Hon. A. J. Majoribanks.

The new cabinet was officially announced as follows: Lord president of the council, Marquis of Salisbury.

Lord high chancellor, Viscount Cave. Chancellor of the exchequer, Stanley Baldwin.

Secretary for home affairs, William Bridgeman.

Secretary for foreign affairs, Lord Curzon.

Minister of agriculture, Sir Robert A. Sanders.

Secretary for Scotland, Viscount Novar.

Attorney general, Douglas McG. Hogg.

Lord advocate, Hon. W. A. Watson.

Secretary for the colonies, the Duke of Devonshire.

Secretary for India, Viscount Peel.

Secretary for war, the Earl of Derby.

First lord of the admiralty, Lieutenant Colonel L. C. M. Smery.

President of the board of trade, Sir Philip Lloyd-Graeme.

Minister of health, Sir Arthur Griffith-Boscawen.

President of the board of education, Edward F. L. Wood, M. P. for the Ripon division of Yorkshire.

Sir Vancandes.

There are still a number of appointments to be made, and it is noticeable that the five officers held under Premier Lloyd George by Austen Chamberlain, H. A. L. Fisher, T. J. Macnamara, Sir Horace Greenwood and the Earl of Crawford and Balcarres, who all joined Lloyd George in the wilderness, are not filled. It is expected that the office of chief secretary for Ireland will be abolished and the ministry of labor will be merged into some other department. The prime minister held his first

Millions for Butter Going Out Of Georgia--Figures That Will Surprise You--Rogers' Milk Service

We want to talk today about a product—or several kindred ones—that are ABSOLUTELY ESSENTIAL and VITAL to the health and happiness of our people—products which Georgia OUGHT to supply to herself, but for which this state sends out of her borders, not thousands—but MILLIONS—of dollars every year.

These products are BUTTER, MILK and CHEESE. When one considers the opportunity this state offers for dairying—for the production of the HIGHEST QUALITY of butter and milk and cream and cheese, and other of the rich, nutritious foods in this line, it is almost appalling—certainly it is astounding—to know what is revealed by a study of a few facts and figures.

And if Georgians do not take advantage of the opportunities staring them in the face, rest assured that within a short time capital from other states will come in here and reap the harvest. But we are not arguing against this.

Let's now discuss BUTTER a little. The L. W. Rogers Company in its 100 stores in Atlanta sells to its patrons in and around this city an average of 15,000 pounds of butter per week. A very small percentage—in fact, practically none—of this amount is produced in Georgia.

We would prefer to buy our butter in Georgia. But it is not produced in uniform, marketable quantities in this state. When we have tried in the past to sell Georgia butter—made here and there in some one of the very few small creameries of our state—we have found, in the first place, we could not get even a small percentage of our needs, and second, we could not supply our patrons with any uniformity in the grade. Generally speaking, it was all good creamy butter, but different creameries have different colors or shades of butter; some is more highly salted, the flavor varies, and a customer, once pleased with a purchase at our store, had no assurance that the exact kind and flavor of butter he or she had purchased could be secured from us a week or so later.

We have mentioned this to show how impracticable it is for us to sell Georgia creamy butter, even in the small lots we might be able to buy in this state. The same situation confronts practically all the large retail handlers of butter in Georgia—certainly in Atlanta. The brokerage firms who handle butter in large quantities will tell you the same thing.

So, let's figure a little just on the consumption of butter in Atlanta, taking that as a fair basis on which to show how much money is going out of our State to Alabama, and Tennessee, and other states in the West, for one item alone that OUGHT TO BE FURNISHED AT HOME.

As stated, the L. W. Rogers Company sells an average of 15,000 pounds of butter each week. Figuring on an average of about four pounds of butter to each cow per week—and this is one pound more than some experts allow—it would take practically 3,800 cows to furnish our company with the butter we sell. At the lowest average retail price of 40 cents per pound, this means $6,000.00 every week, or $312,000.00 annually, paid by our customers, the great bulk of which goes into adjoining states.

But this is just a beginning. The L. W. Rogers Company does only about 15 per cent of the butter business of this city and section. Assuming that other butter dealers have about the same experience as our own—and we believe they do—then practically seven times the amount we sell is handled here in Atlanta—or 105,000 pounds of butter per week. This makes considerably less than half a pound of butter per capita per week. In fact, only about one-third of a pound.

Now, let's see what consumers pay weekly for this, still figuring at 40 cents a pound. They pay $42,000.00. Alright, in 52 weeks—or a year—they pay $2,184,000.00.

This is just in Atlanta alone. What would be the staggering figures from all over Georgia?

And it would take something like 26,000 cows to supply Atlanta alone with butter.

Of course, it must be remembered that thousands of Georgia people produce butter for their own consumption, and there are a few small creameries—we believe about twelve—in the State, that supply a small percentage of people, mostly in their immediate locality, and shipping, too, some out of the state.

And although small in quantity, the QUALITY of butter now being produced in Georgia is high—just as fine and sweet as can be made anywhere. We are able to buy a certain small amount in Columbus, for our Columbus stores. It is of a very high quality. In Macon, Athens, Rome, and a few places, we understand are operated quite successfully small creameries, whose product measures up in quality to any butter made anywhere. But the entire output of ALL the creameries in Georgia would hardly more than supply all our Georgia stores.

Here in Atlanta is produced a comparatively small amount—rich, elegant, splendid butter. The Belmont Dairy, operated by Wm. Zimmerman, turns out as good a product as can be made anywhere. It won the blue ribbon—first prize—we understand, over a number of competitors at the Southeastern Fair, just closed. This shows that butter can be made just as elegantly here as anywhere in the world.

But the point we are making is that there are NO CREAMERIES IN GEORGIA OF SUFFICIENT SIZE TO PRODUCE BUTTER IN LARGE SALABLE QUANTITIES—uniform quality—uniform color, flavor, package, etc., so that a dealer could rely each day and each week upon the same excellent package to offer his patrons. This would take not only one large creamery—but many large ones.

Lying idle in low willow lands are thousands upon thousands of acres in Georgia. These could and should be cleared up, drained if necessary, and made into pasturage.

But it takes work, it takes diligence, it takes effort—not lethargy, not shiftlessness, not indifference, not that self-satisfied feeling that you are "doing very well," to accomplish things worth while. Georgians have got to get away from the rut—from the one-crop, one-things idea. Get away from the idea that shiftless tenants can produce and make things easier for them.

Then again, to accomplish things—to bring about results for the upbuilding and development of Georgia along any line—it demands intelligent direction, cordial, honest co-operation.

There isn't enough "getting together" on community propositions. Dairymen and farmers generally in given sections ought to meet on a business basis. Banking interests, newspapers, chambers of commerce should help and encourage them. Milk depots or shipping points should be established, and all over this State there should be dotted big, high-class creameries, making not only butter for home consumption, and keeping at home the millions of dollars now going out to other states, but Georgia ought to be able to supply butter to other states less blessed than Georgia with so many natural advantages.

ROGERS' MILK SERVICE

Talking of butter brings up, too, the subject of milk.

Let us tell you just a little of the SERVICE the L. W. Rogers Company has been to the dairying interests around Atlanta. We have stated that the true value of an organization to any community was in the SERVICE, the co-operation, it could render the people in that community, and not in the dollars and cents it could make out of it.

Let us prove it in one small instance. About six months ago we contracted for the output of sweet milk of a dairy a few miles from Atlanta, and, handling pint and quart bottles, placed this milk for sale in twelve of our stores. The total quantity was about 30 to 40 gallons daily.

Today that dairy supplies us about 175 gallons, and we take, also, the entire output of thirteen other dairies around Atlanta, and sell this product in convenient shape in 95 of our 100 stores. This milk, of course, is all city inspected and up to a high standard of quality. It amounts in round figures to 3,000 gallons of sweet milk weekly and 500 gallons of buttermilk.

Now as to the SERVICE we rendered: When we began buying milk about six months ago the wholesale price—the price to the dairyman—was around 21 cents per gallon. As we continued to buy we increased steadily that price, until today we pay 45 cents per gallon. When the dairyman was getting, six months ago, 21 cents, the consumer was paying from 15 to 18 cents per quart, or from 60 to 75 cents per gallon. We sell it now in our stores at 12 1-2 cents per quart, or 50 cents per gallon.

What have we done? Increased the price to the Atlanta producer from around 20 cents to 40 and 45 cents per gallon—decreased the price to the consumer from 15 and 18 cents to 12 1-2 cents per quart.

We believe you will agree with us that that is a REAL SERVICE to the people.

And in all this talk about creameries and milk we haven't found space to say anything about the wonderful possibilities of cheese, as we had intended, nor about the millions of cans of condensed milk we buy every year. Of the latter, of course, there will always be a big demand. We purchase annually about 21,000 cases of condensed milk. Forty-eight cans to the case make more than a million cans, and the cost is around $125,000.00 a year.

Now about Atlanta's total milk consumption. The daily consumption per capita in this city is between a third and a half pint of sweet milk. Not all, of course, of this is drunk. Much of it goes into cream and cooking purposes.

Under the supervision, or inspection, of city officials, 6,500 gallons of sweet milk—what is termed the retail side—reaches Atlanta every day. This comes from 254 dairies, large and small, within a radius of 15 miles of Atlanta, and represents the product of 4,500 cows.

Coming in by train and truck in wholesale quantities there comes 7,000 gallons of sweet milk daily, from 5,400 cows in 245 dairies in Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama, and maybe one or two other States. In addition there reaches Atlanta every day 2,000 gallons of buttermilk, 450 gallons of cream and several hundred gallons of skimmed milk.

It might appear here was a nucleus for a large creamery from all this vast amount of milk, but there is scarcely ever any milk to spare in Atlanta, so the milk for a creamery would be in addition to this amount.

But the opportunity is here—in Georgia—not only for large creameries, but for many things. Wake up, Georgians, let's get busy.

Sincerely,

SCOTT W. ALLEN,

Vice President and General Manager

Half Brothers Meet First in Forty Years, When Jailed Together

Little Rock, Ark., October 24.—John Spencer, of Pope county, and Harry Spencer, of Conway county, Arkansas, half brothers, met for the first time in 40 years, when they were both placed in the same cell in the county jail here. Both were under arrest on liquor charges. The father of the two men married twice. John, the elder, was living with other relatives at the time his father was killed 40 years ago. His stepmother and her child, Harry, left the community within a few weeks, and the boys lost all trace of each other.

COTTON BELT ROAD RESUMES SCHEDULES

St. Louis, Mo., October 24.—Passenger trains of the St. Louis, Southwestern railway (Cotton Belt), cancelled on account of the coal shortage and the shippers' strike, will be restored tomorrow, it was announced today at the railroad's general offices here.

The trains include Nos. 5 and 6 between St. Louis and Pine Bluff, Ark.; Nos. 1 and 2 between Pine Bluff and Texas points and trains Nos. 3 and 4 between Malden, Mo., and Brinkley, Ark., connecting with trains 3 and 4 between Memphis, Tenn., and Texas points.

DAIRYING ON FARM SHOWN IN PICTURES

Jackson, Ga., October 24.—(Special.)—"Dairying on the Farm," is the name of a picture that has been shown at several school centers in the county during the past few days. The film is in charge of the extension division of the State College of Agriculture and was put on here to stimulate greater interest in dairying. The picture was shown at the meeting of the Kiwanis club Tuesday night, the organization having fostered the movement for more dairy cows in Butts county.

WEBB PRESIDENT DIXIE ADV. CLUBS

President David W. Webb recommended that this subject be given a place on the program at next year's convention.

Organization of the southeastern division was completed tonight by the election of David W. Webb, of Atlanta, as president, and H. M. Camp, of Chattanooga, as secretary-treasurer. According to the by-laws adopted at tonight's session, the vice president of the national organization becomes head of the newly organized division.

The following board of governors was elected:

E. H. Zachary, Brevard, N. C.; Watt Martin, Winston-Salem, N. C.; E. H. Poulnot, Jr., Charleston, S. C.; J. F. Jacobs, Clinton, S. C.; R. W. Harvey, Atlanta, Ga.; J. A. Maudeville, Carrollton, Ga.; C. M. Bass, Columbus, Ga.; H. R. Harber, Commerce, Ga.; G. H. Glass, Cuthbert, Ga.; J. T. Butler, Barnesville, Ga.; C. E. Coleman, Eastman, Ga.; F. D. Miller, Fort Valley, Ga.; W. B. Shaw, LaFayette, Ga.; J. A. Murphy, LaGrange, Ga.; T. H. Clark, Milledgeville, Ga.; W. M. Corbett, Millen, Ga.; B. C. Kersey, Newnan, Ga.; T. E. Carter, Richmond, Ga.; C. G. Wyatt, Rome, Ga.; C. F. Brown, Tennille, Ga.; M. O. Fulton, Miami, Fla.; Howard Sharp, West Palm Beach, Fla.; E. H. Smith, Greenville, Ala.; F. S. Bolt, Montgomery, Ala.; C. S. Hammett, Sylacauga, Ala.; L. E. Lyons, Vicksburg, Miss.; L. J. Wilhoite, Chattanooga, Ga.; G. M. Snider, Clarksville, Tenn.; and A. B. Waggoner, Morristown, Tenn.

The convention ended with a banquet at Signal Mountain tonight at which gridiron stunts and music were by "Dick" Park, of Chattanooga, and the Whitney sisters, of Atlanta, were featured.

Dramatic Stories Involving Women Feature of News

Chicago, October 24.—Nine tragedies stand out as dramatic spectacles in the news of America today, and all of them present women in the leading roles. They have their settings in six sections of the country.

Six sensational murder cases, five with women as defendants, are in various stages of trial. Another woman, "Peggy" Beal, won her freedom from a jury in Kansas City last night, and a seventh, Madeline Obenchain, awaits her third trial in Los Angeles.

Most of the cases present the "eternal triangle"; briefly, the nine sensational cases appear as follows: Kansas City—Marie F. ("Peggy") Beal stepped out to freedom, acquitted last night after a short trial on a charge of murdering her lover, Frank Warren Anderson.

Los Angeles—Arthur Burch of Evanston, Ill., faces his third trial on a charge of killing J. Belton Kennedy. Madeline Obenchain awaits her third trial on the same charge.

Los Angeles—The jury to try Mrs. Clara Phillips, accused of beating Mrs. Alberta Meadows to death with a hammer, was tentatively completed. Mrs. Meadows was the alleged rival for the love of Mrs. Phillips' husband.

Fresno, Cal.—George T. Harlow, acquitted by a coroner's jury after he clubbed his wife to death, will be tried for manslaughter according to District Attorney Dailey. H. C. Blackard, whom Harlow found in his home with Mrs. Harlow, was sentenced to 90 days in jail for disorderly conduct.

Philadelphia—Mrs. Catherine Roser, accused of killing her husband, Oscar Roser, and his stenographer, Mildred Geraldine Recket, faced trial for the murder of Miss Recket.

Hackensack, N. J.—George Cline, motion picture director; Alice Thornton, and Charles Scullion, brother-in-law of Cline, were on trial for the murder of John Bergen, motion picture actor.

Cleveland—Mrs. Mabel Champion, 22, is on trial for killing her father-in-law, David Hodell, with poison, repudiated her previous confession to police.

New Brunswick, N. J.—State officials took over the task of attempting to solve the murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and his choir leader, Mrs. Eleanor Mills.

Probably the most celebrated of the women chem experts are Senatoria Moss, of Cuba, and Madame Katerina Besko, of Stockholm.

RICH OIL REGION IS WANTED BY TURKS

Constantinople, October 24.—The Turkish nationalist government desires to open the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus to the world. But it regards the district of Mosul, a rich oil region comprising the northern part of Mesopotamia, as Turkish territory, and inside the nationalist frontier.

These two significant declarations were made by Mustafa Kemal, head of the Turkish nationalist government, in reply to questions sent to him at Ankara through one of his staff officers who acted as courier for the United News.

Kemal Pasha's expressed desire to keep the straits open to the world is in accord with the requirement laid down by the allies. His declaration that a rich section of the Mesopotamia oil field is Turkish territory may stir up considerable discussion as Great Britain has already assumed a dominating position under the Mesopotamian mandate authorized by the treaty of Versailles.

Is Turk Property.
"The country of Mosul, comprising the well-known oil fields, is Turkish property inside our national frontier," Mustafa Kemal said. "We intend to open the straits on the condition that the security of Constantinople and the Sea of Marmara is assured. Reasonable forms of solution will be applied which we shall find in accord with the interests of the world." Our peace demands were established long before the recent victory in a resolution adopted by the national assembly at Ankara, known as the national pact.

"We attach importance to the immense capital and great industries of America. We hope they will fully cooperate with our national interests. America, Europe and the whole civilized world must know that the Turkish people, like all civilized nations, have categorically decided to enjoy freedom and independence without any condition and without any reserve."

Fundamental Aim.
"Any force aiming at weakening this legitimate resolve would be considered the eternal enemy of Turkey. I am convinced that the conscience of the entire civilized world has approved the Turkish view on this point. Our fundamental principle is to restore the country which has been devastated and ruined by the enemy; assure the legitimate development of our economic life, which during the years past has been hindered by diverse obstacles; and attain a normal, hard-working life with the help of science and instruction."

Harding Refuses Legion Request To Fire Sawyer

Washington, October 24.—President Harding is perfectly satisfied with the services of Brigadier-General Charles E. Sawyer, it was said today at the White House, and will not ask for his resignation as demanded by the American Legion in its national convention last week at New Orleans.

White House officials added, in discussing the subject that the federal board of hospitalization, of which General Sawyer is chairman, was a voluntary creation of the president and as such the president alone was responsible.

The president, it was said, expects to bring the hospitalization board into closer cooperation with the agencies of the government having to do with the treatment of disabled former service men and in doing so expects it to more than justify its creation. Most of the complaints against General Sawyer, in the opinion of the administration, arises from the controversy over location of hospital sites in the district composed of the states of Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan. In this connection it is pointed out that the principal site which was in controversy was that of a hospital at Camp Custer, Mich., was selected by the president personally.

OWSLEY TO SEE PRESIDENT.

Denton, Texas, October 24.—Colonel Alvin M. Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, declared today that he intends to visit Washington soon and indicated that the resolution adopted at the New Orleans convention of the legion demanding the resignation of Brigadier-General Sawyer would be discussed.

Colonel Owsley declared he was confident that "the difficulties in which we now find ourselves will find a speedy solution."

"This is a question of supreme importance and no hasty action is to be taken," Colonel Owsley said. "I have every hope that President Harding does not intend to harm any soldiers. I hope to see the president in Washington and present the complaints of our American Legion to him."

Colonel Owsley made this statement following the white house announcement that President Harding would not ask for General Sawyer's resignation.

RICHARDS NAMED COLUMBUS CITY MANAGER TUESDAY

Columbus, Ga., October 24.—Walter R. Richards, former commander of the local post of the American Legion and an employee of a Columbus cotton mill, was today appointed city manager of Columbus to succeed Henry B. Crawford. The position carries with it a salary of $8,000 a year.

"JUBILEE WEEK" OPENS AT AUGUSTA TODAY

Augusta, Ga., October 24.—Three days of jubilee begin here tomorrow and preparations are being made to entertain thousands of visitors. "Jubilee week" was put on instead of the usual fall fair. All entertainment is being provided by the city free of charge.

"WHOLESALE" BURGLARS THWART AUTHORITIES

Police Tuesday were still searching for the burglars who entered the store of O. Richmond, 247 Chapel street, Sunday night, and carried away several hundred dollars worth of merchandise in automobiles. Cigars, candy, tobacco and groceries taken in carton lots were included in the loot. They gained entrance by forcing a rear door open.

VICTOR E. INNES NOW MUST FIGHT

ter success in proving my innocence in this case than in the former trial." Attired in the same blue denim clothing that has been his dress for the term of years he has finished in the changing, Innes exchanged greetings with officials at the county jail, recognizing a number of the officers who were at the tower when he was there awaiting trial.

His once black hair, then only partly streaked with gray, has given way in the passing of time to solid gray, almost white. Despite his 58 years—he admitted he was just past his 58th milestone—Innes still maintains his robust physique, only a slight stoop was noticed in his shoulders.

Commenting on the changing sentence he has just completed, Innes had nothing but praise for Warden Charlie Cates, who he declared was fair and just in administering the affairs at the camp. He jokingly urged the jailer to assign him to a "room" in the tower with a "bath" or "connecting bath."

Back in 1914 Mrs. Eloise Nelms Dennis, who resided in Atlanta, made a trip to Reno, Nev., for the purpose of obtaining a divorce from her husband. While there she met Innes and employed him to handle her case. It was during this period that she is said to have become infatuated with Innes. The scene then shifted back to Atlanta, and the return of the two sisters to the home of their mother, Mrs. J. W. Nelms, on Gordon street.

Invested in Oil.
Before leaving Reno Mrs. Dennis had turned over several thousand dollars to Innes, it was charged, which he invested in a Mexican oil company. Followed an invitation from Innes for Mrs. Dennis to visit the oil lands in Mexico, the family charges. Other letters are said to have passed between them.

The trip was arranged, Mrs. Dennis leaving Atlanta with her sister, Innes to return. According to detectives who investigated the case the two sisters arrived at San Antonio where they are said to have met Innes. Every trace of them ended at this point, the detectives reporting they were completely baffled. The search was extended to all parts of the continent and was joined in by Marshall Nelms, brother of the two missing girls, who devoted several years in a tireless search for them.

Posters and other detailed information were broadcast from Atlanta by Hugh M. Dorsey, at that time solicitor general, who later became governor. The disappearance of the two girls has remained a mystery since that time.

Innes Is Arrested.
When no word was received from the two girls, the family immediately became suspicious and sought the aid of local authorities who communicated with Texas officials. Innes and his wife, Mrs. Ida May Innes, were arrested on charges of having murdered the two girls. They were successful in their fight for extradition, and later acquitted in the Texas courts on the technicality of the Texas laws pertaining to "corpus delicti," which provides that unless the body or part of it is shown sufficient to establish the fact of death, the evidence is insufficient to convict of murder.

The charges against Innes and his wife were changed by Solicitor Dorsey to larceny after trust, the two being re-arrested and turned over to Georgia authorities. It was on this charge that the two were convicted. Innes receiving a sentence of seven years and his wife five years. The latter was paroled to her son after having served three years of her sentence, and is said to be in Arizona at present seeking to regain her health.

Atlanta Woman Accident Victim In Buford Smash

Her skull fractured in an automobile accident Sunday, Mrs. E. W. Campbell, 616 North Boulevard, Tuesday was reported still in a serious condition by hospital authorities at Gainesville, where she was taken after the accident, which happened near Buford.

Mrs. Campbell, it was stated, jumped from the car, as it plunged toward a fence when she went to turn from the road to avoid hitting a pedestrian. She is the wife of H. W. Campbell, manager of the International Life Insurance company, in Atlanta.

She was accompanied by her husband, her 12-year-old son, and Miss Mildred Watson, of Atlanta. The party was returning from Gainesville, where they had visited relatives.

Amateur Yeggmen Attempt to Open Safe With Crowbar

Amateur yeggmen failed to open a safe in the office of J. A. Hudson, 495 Marietta street Monday night, according to a report by the city detective bureau.

Failing to open the safe, the intruders took about $50 worth of hams, and groceries, it is said. Hudson told the police that entrance was gained through the rear of the building. A crowbar was used in the attempt to open the safe.

"DOUGLAS GIRLS" TO TELL CIVITANS OF WESTERN TRIP

Adventures on an automobile journey into America's scenic northwest will be described by Jean and Helen Douglas, at the weekly Civitan club luncheon Friday, it was announced Tuesday.

Octavus Roy Cohen, Birmingham author, who had planned to address the club, wired President Julian Boehm Tuesday that he will be unable to be in Atlanta this week.

The Douglas girls recently returned from an extended automobile trip across the Rocky mountains, and unusual incidents on their jaunt will be related in their entertaining style.

FATHER JACKSON PRAISES PASTORS BEFORE KIWANIS

Ministers play an important part in a city's life, and were it not for Atlanta's clergy the city's morals would be at a low ebb, it was declared Tuesday by Father O. N. Jackson, of St. Anthony's Catholic church, in an address before the Kiwanis club.

Rev. Jackson said that the minister or priest who forever clasps his hands across his chest and bends his eyes heavenward is not the type of clergyman who can best reach the everyday business man.

The meeting Tuesday was devoted chiefly to reports from the state convention in Savannah last week. Announcement was made that Jules Brazil, popular member of the Toronto-Kiwanis club who addressed the state convention, will be the guest of the Atlanta club next Tuesday.

Arrangements have been made to tender him a luncheon at the Ansley hotel.

Mr. Brazil, in addition to being a speaker of note, is a talented entertainer.

GEORGIA ARTIST SHOWS PAINTINGS AT LOCAL STUDIO

The paintings of W. Ormond Knight, noted Georgia artist and writer, portraying the grandeur of Georgia mountain scenery, will be on exhibition this afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock at the studio of Miss Caroline Cobb, 502 Grand theater building.

Mr. Knight, although born just across the Tennessee line, is considered a native Georgian, as his home has been in Habersham county, near Clarksville since a few years after his birth. His paintings have attracted nationwide attention in the last few years, and have been placed on exhibition in famous studios in New York and at many places throughout the south.

In addition to being an artist Mr. Knight has won many laurels of praise as a writer. Many of his most beautiful paintings bear poetic inscriptions he has written.

Mr. Knight had defined art as being "The memory of things past, the statement of things present, the imitation of things to come." All of his works are devoted exclusively to Georgia scenery.

The exhibition will be sponsored by Miss Marion Otis, art director of the Caroline Cobb Community works.

Dr. L. D. Loughridge.

Athens, Ga., October 24.—Dr. L. D. Loughridge, aged 33, well known young Athens dentist, died Tuesday morning at 11:35 at his home in this city after an illness of several days, caused from an infected finger and pneumonia.

Prize-Winning Local Dog Is on Warpath for Honors

BY PAUL STEVENSON.
Atlanta soon will have another contender for international fame who will undertake to assume a place along with "Bobby" Jones, Alex Stirling, the Tech football team, several soft drinks, candies and patent medicines as an advertiser of this city.

The new candidate is a dog and after winning about all the prizes they had to offer at the recent show of the Atlanta Kennel club, he is going up to Madison Square Garden, New York, next February to make a try for the world's highest honors in dogdom.

"Wolf" is the dog's name but they call him "Wolf von Gerta Basso" for short. This is done to keep his pedigree straight. It is easier for a came to skip blithely through the eye of a needle than it is for a dog to keep its pedigree straight.

Mrs. George B. Beck, 210 Houston street, with "Wolf von Gerta Basso," her wolfhound, who won blue ribbons and such at the recent Atlanta kennel show.

This particular dog is owned by Mr. and Mrs. George B. Beck, 210 Houston street. He is a German wolfhound and although but 11 months old already is as large as a lion. If he keeps on growing at his present rate he'll be as big as an elephant when the show is held.

"Wolf" is a puppy of "Gerta," of the Palisades, the prize-winning wolfhound owned by Mr. and Mrs. G. Bates, of Oakland City. For three years Gerta's pups have won first prize in the Atlanta shows. Mr. and Mrs. Bates raised "Wolf" and turned him over to Mr. and Mrs. Beck.

"Wolf" was trained at the Ansley Park kennels. It can be seen in the picture that one of "Wolf's" ears droops a little while the other stands up straight.

$40,000 DAMAGE SUIT IS SETTLED BY INJURED GIRL

By private agreement the $40,000 damage suit in Fulton superior court filed by Miss Lillian Thomas against Patrick Lyons as a result of an automobile accident has been settled, and Tuesday the court ordered the plaintiff to pay the costs, thus terminating the litigation.

Miss Thomas asked reparation through Attorneys Lawton Nalley and H. W. McIlarty for permanent injuries received when an automobile in which she was riding was struck by a machine driven by Lyons. The accident occurred on December 10, 1920, at Pryor and Glenn streets.

Watch the Man
See the changes one week brings

Millions of women know this new way of teeth cleaning. And the pretty teeth seen everywhere now show what it means to them.

If the man doesn't use it, get this 10-Day Tube for him. Then watch the results. See what changes will come in a week.

That dingy film
Most people who brush teeth in old ways have film-coated teeth. A vicious film clings to the teeth, enters crevices and stays. That film becomes discolored, particularly with men who smoke. Tartar is based on film.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

No old-type tooth paste can effectively fight film. So all these troubles were constantly increasing, and beautiful teeth were seen less often than today.

New discoveries
Dental science, after long research, has found two ways to fight that film. One acts to curdle it, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Many careful tests proved these methods efficient. Then authorities endorsed them, and dentists everywhere began to advise their use.

A new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. The name is Pepsodent. Then these two great film combatants were embodied in it for daily application.

Not film alone
But Pepsodent brings other great results which research proves essential. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to constantly neutralize the acids which cause decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Those are Nature's great tooth-protecting forces in the mouth. Every use of Pepsodent gives them manifold power.

Judge Its Quality—Then Price

There's something alluring about the Studebaker Special-Six Sedan. You notice it when you pass one on the street. It grows on you as you examine the car's details. It becomes even more pronounced when you take the wheel and drive it.

No wonder the Special-Six Sedan carries such an appeal! Its beauty of line, finish and appointments fascinates you. The delightful harmony of color in the upholstery, the completeness of the appointments and the soft carpeting afford real elegance—and at a new low price.

The body is a striking example of the handcraft of Studebaker artisans. Built in Studebaker plants where the coachmaker's art has been handed down from father to son for more than two generations.

It is mounted on the same dependable Special-Six chassis that has added new fame to the name Studebaker wherever cars are known.

Compare its appearance, its endurance records, its comfort, its equipment and its recognized reliability with any car within hundreds of dollars of its price. Judge it on quality first—then price—because price alone is no indication of its intrinsic value.

You can have confidence in the quality of Studebaker cars—in the 70 years of business success and manufacturing integrity back of them—and in the sterling dollar-for-dollar value built into them.

The name Studebaker on your car insures satisfaction!

Y. W. C. A. REGIONAL CONFERENCE OPENS

Representatives from ten southern states are in attendance at the session of the National Y. W. C. A. Southern Regional conference, the first session of which was held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. building. The launching of additional work in the south was stated as the purpose of the conference, which is in line with the work started two years ago at the convention at Hot Springs, Ark. Georgia, Florida, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, North Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia were represented at this meeting. Special attention will be given to what the Y. W. C. A. can do toward putting into operation the resolutions adopted at Hot Springs. National leaders in attendance at the conference are Mrs. Robert E. Street, New York, president of the National Y. W. C. A., for the day of Wednesday only; Mrs. Edward M. Townsend, New York; Mrs. J. Scott Parrish and Mrs. J. T. Crockett, Richmond, Va., and Miss Mabel Cratty and Miss Isabel Norton, of the National Y. W. C. A. board. "I am in love with the girls of today. Their very frankness and alertness and those things which are most attractive to me. The American girl is the finest in the world," Miss Mabel Cratty, general secretary of the National board of the association, declared in a talk Tuesday. Miss Cratty is here to attend the national regional meeting. "As for the girls, I feel as a great English woman said she did several weeks ago," Miss Cratty said. "She declared the girls of this country are her. She meant by that their alertness and openness and poise under any condition were amazing to her. I feel that way, too. "Of course, in every city there are some who are worthy of the things that have been said about them, but that is always true, unfortunately, and, anyhow, they are not the real American girls."

GRAMMAR SCHOOLS TO TEACH CIVICS FROM BOY SCOUTS

A course in civics will be given the fifth, sixth and seventh grades in the Atlanta schools during this week. The course is based on the Boy Scout movement, and was prepared by M. G. Boswell, associate Boy Scout executive, and Miss Mary W. Postell, elementary supervisor, and Miss Lamar Jeter, instructor of normal training school. Value of the Boy Scouts as a local institution caused the board of education to embody the course in scouting in the school curriculum. Study of the course will not entitle students to rank as scouts, and is given merely to acquaint them with the aims and scope of the movement.

JORDAN SUPPORTS CAPTAIN PHELPS FOR PENSION POST

Captain W. H. H. Phelps, of Atlanta, is running in the general election for state pension commissioner to succeed the late John W. Lindsey on the ground that the primary election for this place was held without authority of law, it was announced Tuesday by R. H. Jordan, one of his supporters. Mr. Jordan has made public correspondence passing between Captain Phelps and state officials in which the contention is made that the primary was held without authority and that it was the general understanding that all candidates for this place should run in the general election of November 7. In his statement Mr. Jordan calls attention to the fact that Captain Phelps was not a candidate in the recent primary but has held the view all along that the successor to Judge Lindsey should be named in the general election. He will make the race in the general election for the place against Major C. E. McGregor, of Warrenton, who was nominated in the recent primary. Mr. Jordan declares that Captain Phelps is a Confederate veteran whose character is above reproach. He recalls the act of Captain Phelps in spending $11,000 in gold for provisions for the Confederate government to use in feeding prisoners during the war. He pays tribute to the ability of Captain Phelps to fill the position of pension commissioner.

PATIENTS LOST, DOCTOR IS SUING BATTERY COMPANY

Because the storage battery in his automobile was seized by the municipal court on bail trover proceedings, D. J. W. Field, physician, of 785 Marietta street, had to give up several patients to other doctors owing to his inability to answer quick calls, he claims in a $2,500 damage suit filed Tuesday against the Battery Sales company. According to Dr. Field, he took a storage battery to the defendant company in December, 1921, and ordered it recharged. An employee dropped the battery and damaged it beyond repair, and he was furnished with another battery in its place. On September 15, 1932, a deputy marshal levied on the battery in accordance with bail trover proceedings instituted by the Battery Sales company although, according to Dr. Field, no previous demand had been made on him for the equipment. By temporarily depriving him of the use of his machine, when he needed to answer four urgent calls, he claims, his practice was damaged. Attorney Lewis A. Burton represents him.

Auto Runs Amuck In Crowded Traffic; Driver Is Arrested

An automobile driven by James Davis, colored, sideswiped a street car at Peachtree and Seventh streets late Monday evening, swerved and struck an automobile driven by G. W. McKenzie, 1418 Peachtree street, and glancing from the McKenzie car, hit an automobile driven by Alex C. King, 653 Peachtree street. Davis was placed under arrest, charged with being drunk and reckless driving. No one was injured.

INJURED DAIRYMAN SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

J. G. Nash, East Lake dairyman, who was seriously hurt when the truck he was driving Sunday was struck by an automobile, is recovering, according to a statement made Tuesday by the Grady hospital authorities. The accident happened at Peachtree and Fourteenth streets.

DEKALB HUNTSMAN SUFFERS OPERATION

Much improvement in the condition of Mrs. J. A. McCurdy, wife of Sheriff McCurdy, of DeKalb county, was reported Tuesday from St. Joseph's infirmary, where she is convalescing following an operation last week. Mrs. McCurdy has achieved a remarkable record in DeKalb county in hunting, despite the fact that her health has not been good for some years. It is said that few men in the county can shoot over dogs to such effect as Mrs. McCurdy.

Delay Atlanta Tour.

An industrial tour of Atlanta, planned by the business woman's division of the chamber of commerce for October 28, has been postponed in order that more extensive arrangements may be completed for making the trip more interesting and enjoyable. A number of Atlanta manufacturing plants will be visited on this trip, and the later date will be made public shortly, it was announced.

FEDERAL AGENTS RAID HUGE STILLS IN GEORGIA HILLS

Continuing their vigilance on moonshiners which was begun in earnest two weeks ago and which has resulted in more than 20 stills being destroyed, prohibition enforcement officers during the past three days have added four additional stills to their record and apprehended two alleged operators. Two stills with an estimated total capacity of 1,000 gallons were destroyed by Agent R. L. Key near the boundary line of Troup and Heard counties and two other stills with a capacity of 100 gallons each, in Henry and Spalding counties, were reported destroyed Tuesday by Fred D. Dismauke, director of prohibition for Georgia. Buddy Mallory and John Johnson, charged with operating the still confiscated in Henry county, were arrested and charged by Agents Sowell, Smith and Forbes, with manufacturing illicit whisky. A large quantity of fermented mash was destroyed at all four stills, the officers reported.

W. C. Hill Analyzes Near East Situation At Chamber Luncheon

Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at their luncheon at the Peacock cafe Tuesday were treated to what was pronounced one of the most comprehensive analyses of the Near Eastern situation that has been given before an Atlanta audience, when Walter C. Hill, vice president of the Retail Credit company, delivered an address, featuring the information and impressions gained through a recent tour of that country. Colonel R. H. Williams, acting chief of staff, fourth corps area, also addressed the gathering, touching on the situation from a military point of view. Following the meeting members of the Junior chamber declared that the impartial treatment of the subject, giving Turks credit and discredit and according the same to the Armenians and other Christians, had given them a clearer conception of the conditions over there than had been possible to gain through other sources of information.

Luckless Fear Great Unknown In City Hall Find

BY HENSON TATUM. It was said that, until somebody is actually discovered to be missing from city hall, no hospital registers will be canvassed, and the inquiry will be conducted on the q. t. within the municipal building. And then, it was pointed out confidentially, a test by the probers may prove that it's all a mistake or else just a horrible hoax which some practical joker is attempting to perpetrate. Nevertheless, there was an air of mysterious uneasiness about it that hovered like an uncertain pall over the city departments all day Tuesday.

Suffered From Pyorrhea for Many Years

Disease Completely Disappears After Using Heroic Gum Remedy for Only Two Weeks

One of the most startling testimonials about Heroic Gum Remedy which has been received from Atlanta people is a letter from Mr. Joseph M. Bannon, engineer of Grand Bldg. Mr. Bannon writes: "Having suffered from Pyorrhea, or Riggs' Disease, for many years, during which time I had been treated at considerable expense by many dentists and doctors for this ailment with only temporary relief, I finally despaired of ever finding a permanent cure for this obstinate trouble. As a last resort I tried Heroic Gum Remedy, and after seven days' treatment I noticed a great improvement, the soreness and redness of my gums disappearing. I have used this treatment for two weeks and truthfully assert that my gum trouble has completely disappeared. I feel that a permanent cure has resulted from my use of Heroic Gum Remedy. Yours very truly, Joseph M. Bannon. Do your gums feel sore and tender, are they receding, or do they sometimes bleed when you clean your teeth, or are your gums unhealthy and light pink in color? Is your breath offensive to those with whom you come in contact? Do your teeth feel loose or pain you, or do they ache when you eat certain kinds of food or drink hot or cold liquids? If you have any of these danger symptoms of Pyorrhea, or Riggs' Disease, you should immediately go to your druggist and obtain a bottle of Heroic Gum Remedy. A $2.00 bottle contains a complete series of treatments. Only in very unusual cases is a second bottle necessary.

Whether or not you have Pyorrhea you should always keep a bottle of Heroic Gum Remedy on hand. When used as a mouth wash it cannot be equalled as a preventive of diseases of the mouth. If your local druggist cannot supply you, send $2.00 to the Heroic Gum Remedy Company, Dept. C, Atlanta, Ga., for a bottle postpaid. (Adv.)

Marriage Lecture. The sacredness of marriage will be discussed by the Rev. Thomas H. Harrison, the "Engineer Evangelist," when he appears at the Pondera Avenue Baptist church Thursday night. The Rev. Mr. Harrison was a railroad engineer for 11 years prior to his entrance in the ministry. He is now holding a revival at the Pondera Avenue church. Iron, copper, zinc and practically every other element known to be on earth has been detected on the sun in a gaseous state.

Just From Georgia

By FRANK L. JENNINGS

Within the Shadow.

Here do I wait, Beside a hearth made lone by the loss

Of those dear friends who have laid down life's cross

And entered that dim gate that leads to lands of light

Where shadows of a long and dreary night

Here by this dying flame, I hear the old, remembered song and jest:

A child, half-dreaming on a mother's breast

Murmurs her gentle name, And friends I loved incline

Toward me the dear hearts that answered mine.

A tree of golden hair, A memory of kisses and of tears,

Those that withered in the years The flowers her kiss made fair—

The forgotten tone Of her sweet voice—these only are

Patience, poor heart! Why weep? It is but life! Thy parting comes

Tears do but dim the roses on life's face

God gives his loved ones sleep! Say thy farewells!

The night is lonely. Hark! the bells! the bells!

Home-Town Reflections.

When politics is quiet then comes the rest time for the people, and the hard work time for the politicians.

When you see trouble coming, you'd make more by breakin' your neck tryin' to get away from it.

The Picture.

The painter's lost in dreamland, His art he doesn't know.

He can't paint Jenny's picture When her eyes are talking so!

Her wonder-eyes, that seem to say: "Love's coming home today!"

The heavens are blue above her, The dream of day and night;

The birds and blossoms, love her And time would stay his flight

To hear—oh, love, old and gray—"Love's coming home today!"

An observation of The Houston Post is that the advertiser who declares that "the woman is too stupid to be stylish," is a tantalizing devil.

Br'er Williams' Philosophy.

You needn't mind 'bout givin' de devil his due, right now. Dar's always a chance that you kin settle with him hereafter.

De man what pays as he goes never goes so fast that he has to holler back: "Keep de change!"

Still Weather.

And now are days so still That one can hear a rustling dollar bill.

And wonder how, since it's as far away As the old earth from the Judgment Day!

A Reminder.

(From The Whitest Courier.) Remember, dear friends, that while we're keeping up the fire we're burning up the wood.

NEW STAR OUTPOSTS.

At last our knowledge of the Milky Way has been extended to greater limits—that are really not limits at all, for science only halts temporarily on the sky-trail of systems of stars whose almost inconceivable distances are enough to take the breath away.

Amid these remote suns, in new and infinite clusters, science is feeling its way and marking out bright new paths of light, and all the dead suns and moons are registered.

And the thrilling thought is that this great earth of ours, in its own universe, diminutive as it is by comparison, is cutting a pretty wide swath on its own account in bringing to light that which was hid in darkness.

We're going on "from strength to strength" in every way imaginable. The secret thing is revealed and we are continually getting nearer and nearer to the light of the perfect day.

"There is no darkness but ignorance," and that is being banished from the depths to the heights.

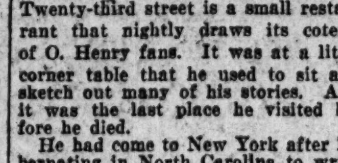

It won't do to say: "We don't need to reach out for other worlds that glimmer in the far depths of space, when there's so much to be mended on this little planet!"

But the mending process is going on here, without intermission, and we are learning more of ourselves and our earth's destiny through the genius that takes in all.

Science is placing us on a higher plane than we ever dreamed of; and to ask: "Is this the end?" is only to glimpse "The Moving Finger" indicating the way to greater things.

Within the Shadow.

Here do I wait, Beside a hearth made lone by the loss

Of those dear friends who have laid down life's cross

And entered that dim gate that leads to lands of light

Where shadows of a long and dreary night

Here by this dying flame, I hear the old, remembered song and jest:

A child, half-dreaming on a mother's breast

Murmurs her gentle name, And friends I loved incline

Toward me the dear hearts that answered mine.

A tree of golden hair, A memory of kisses and of tears,

Those that withered in the years The flowers her kiss made fair—

The forgotten tone Of her sweet voice—these only are

Patience, poor heart! Why weep? It is but life! Thy parting comes

Tears do but dim the roses on life's face

God gives his loved ones sleep! Say thy farewells!

The night is lonely. Hark! the bells! the bells!

Home-Town Reflections.

When politics is quiet then comes the rest time for the people, and the hard work time for the politicians.

When you see trouble coming, you'd make more by breakin' your neck tryin' to get away from it.

The Picture.

The painter's lost in dreamland, His art he doesn't know.

He can't paint Jenny's picture When her eyes are talking so!

Her wonder-eyes, that seem to say: "Love's coming home today!"

The heavens are blue above her, The dream of day and night;

The birds and blossoms, love her And time would stay his flight

To hear—oh, love, old and gray—"Love's coming home today!"

An observation of The Houston Post is that the advertiser who declares that "the woman is too stupid to be stylish," is a tantalizing devil.

You needn't mind 'bout givin' de devil his due, right now. Dar's always a chance that you kin settle with him hereafter.

De man what pays as he goes never goes so fast that he has to holler back: "Keep de change!"

Still Weather.

And now are days so still That one can hear a rustling dollar bill.

And wonder how, since it's as far away As the old earth from the Judgment Day!

A Reminder.

NEW STAR OUTPOSTS.

At last our knowledge of the Milky Way has been extended to greater limits—that are really not limits at all, for science only halts temporarily on the sky-trail of systems of stars whose almost inconceivable distances are enough to take the breath away.

Amid these remote suns, in new and infinite clusters, science is feeling its way and marking out bright new paths of light, and all the dead suns and moons are registered.

And the thrilling thought is that this great earth of ours, in its own universe, diminutive as it is by comparison, is cutting a pretty wide swath on its own account in bringing to light that which was hid in darkness.

We're going on "from strength to strength" in every way imaginable. The secret thing is revealed and we are continually getting nearer and nearer to the light of the perfect day.

"There is no darkness but ignorance," and that is being banished from the depths to the heights.

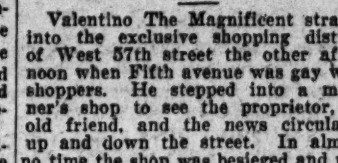

It won't do to say: "We don't need to reach out for other worlds that glimmer in the far depths of space, when there's so much to be mended on this little planet!"

But the mending process is going on here, without intermission, and we are learning more of ourselves and our earth's destiny through the genius that takes in all.

Science is placing us on a higher plane than we ever dreamed of; and to ask: "Is this the end?" is only to glimpse "The Moving Finger" indicating the way to greater things.

INCOME TAXPAYERS DOUBLE IN NUMBER

An increase of 100 per cent in the number of persons paying federal income tax since 1918 is shown in the figures released Tuesday by the local internal revenue department.

A decided increase in the number of taxpayers reporting incomes of between $2,000 and $3,000 per year is noted in the figures. This indicates, the report states, that economic conditions over the country are improving.

A total of 7,259,944 persons of all groups paid income tax during 1931, the figures show.

Don't Be A "Blimp"

There's no excuse for your remaining a human gas bag. You can easily avoid the distress and humiliation caused by excessive gas in the stomach and bowels, if you will take Baalman's Gas Tablets before and after meals.

Bloating, belching and rumbling in the abdomen will cease to annoy you. There will be no more pain about the heart, no more burning at pit of stomach, no oppression, full feeling after eating, no numbness in limbs, no drowsiness, dizziness or other disagreeable symptoms resulting from gas. You will be able to eat what you like, without discomfort, for these tablets not only relieve gas, but improve digestion as well.

Genuine Baalman's Gas Tablets, in the yellow packages, are sold by Curtis Drug Co., Jackson Drug Co., Chas. A. Smith and all other leading druggists. Price, one dollar. Guaranteed to be harmless. J. Baalman, (Gentle, San Francisco—adv.)

Mrs. Cora Vinson Goes to Prison Farm This Week

Mrs. Cora Lou Vinson will leave the Fulton tower for the state prison farm at Milledgeville the latter part of this week to begin sentence of life imprisonment for slaying her husband, Dr. W. D. Vinson, it was learned Tuesday.

The final legal action in Mrs. Vinson's fight for life occurred Tuesday when she appeared before a jury in Judge B. N. Hardeman's division of Fulton superior court and entered a plea of guilty to a charge of murder. The jury at once recommended mercy for her and Judge Hardeman sentenced her to life imprisonment.

The procedure was merely a formality, as attorneys for both sides had agreed last week on the substitution of the prison sentence for the death penalty. Mrs. Vinson had entered a plea of guilty before Judge Humphries and received a sentence to life imprisonment, but her appearance then was not before a jury, and the action Tuesday was to complete the record.

The plea and sentence, in lieu of the death sentence, were confirmed despite the opposition of D. W. D. Vinson's sons, who had declared they would exhaust every legal means to make their stepmother hang.

She will never be satisfied with the life sentence, for I feel that justice has been thwarted," Dr. G. O. Vinson declared to The Constitution Tuesday.

The plea and sentence, in lieu of the death sentence, were confirmed despite the opposition of D. W. D. Vinson's sons, who had declared they would exhaust every legal means to make their stepmother hang.

"Business is better everywhere," stated the announcement. "We feel it first, of course, as do other transportation companies. Everywhere we have been in the south, mills, cotton and steel, are working full time, and there is a note of confidence in the talk of all."

"The New England states are also buoyed up and New Englanders are never hopeful until they have business, and New Yorkers are the same way."

Washington, October 24.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—Further progress toward 100 per cent normal industrial conditions and a balanced supply and demand for skilled and unskilled labor in the state of Georgia was reported in a special survey of employment released today by the department of labor.

With the exception of Atlanta and Macon, where a surplus of labor exists, improvement was noted throughout the state.

The report also stated conditions in the country in general shows a greater tendency to normal, particularly in a majority of the southern states.

Charged with fighting each other with knives, W. J. Blanton and Dennis Evans were fined $10 when they appeared before Recorder Johnson Monday afternoon.

The trouble was said to have arisen over the attention Evans paid to Blanton's wife before the marriage recently.

Blanton, it is said, effected a reconciliation with his bride prior to the police court hearing.

$2,500,000 Stock Issue Is Planned By Power Company

Plans of the Georgia Railway and Power company to issue $2,500,000 8 per cent cumulative preferred stock were outlined to the state public service commission Tuesday by H. M. Atkinson, chairman of the board and Preston S. Arkwright, president. The company is seeking authority from the commission to issue the stock.

Under the plan the new stock is to be exchanged for a similar amount of 6 per cent stock. No opposition to the proposed stock issue was offered at the hearing Tuesday. The commission took the case under advisement and will announce a decision later.

AUTHORITIES SEEK FORMER OFFICER

Charged with passing bogus checks, H. H. Lewis, supernumerary policeman, is being sought by the police. He was arrested last week, and released on $100 bond. When the case came up for a hearing today, Recorder Johnson ordered the bond forfeited and the man rearrested.

FOUR BISHOPS HELP CHURCH CELEBRATION

Four bishops will take part in the celebration from Sunday to Wednesday of the 75th anniversary of St. Philip's Episcopal cathedral. Bishop A. W. Knight, formerly dean of the cathedral, bishop of New Jersey;

DEAN THOMAS H. JOHNSTON, Of St. Philip's Cathedral.

Bishop F. F. Reese, of the diocese of Georgia; Bishop Thomas F. Gailor, president of the national council of the church and bishop of Tennessee, and Bishop H. J. Mikell, of the diocese of Atlanta, will be the guests of honor and speakers.

Leather bound copies of the souvenir history of the cathedral, compiled by R. A. Palmer, went on sale Tuesday. More than 200 copies of the book in paper art covers, were sold since the book left the press Saturday. The book is an elaborately prepared volume with half tone engravings of all bishops and clergymen who have served the cathedral. Many leading Atlantans were contributors to the volume, which contains a detailed account of the church's history since it was founded in 1847.

The book will be on sale through Sunday at St. Philip's, St. Luke's and All Saints' churches and at Miller's book store, Mr. Palmer said. A companion volume, containing addresses and an account of the four days of celebration, cantatas, receptions and services, probably will be published at the close of the jubilee, it was said.

Bishop Reese will preach at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. The evening service will be featured by three speakers, Bishop Knight, Dean Johnston and Dr. C. B. Wilmer, Bishop Knight left St. Philip's in 1905 to become bishop of Cuba. He was consecrated in the cathedral.

Bishop Gailor, who holds the highest office of the Episcopal church, will be the speaker at the closing service Wednesday evening. Former members of the cathedral in many parts of the United States have written Dean Johnston, that they will be in Atlanta for the celebration and for the renewing of acquaintances.

ment that tended to isolate Mexico in any commercial or political way.

So far as the many existing points of difference between any two or more of the Central American countries, such as boundary disputes, are concerned, it is believed these will be mentioned only incidentally in the Washington conference.

It is also obviously desirable from a point of view of Pan-American relations generally that the Central American conference should have reached a successful conclusion prior to March, 1923, when the Pan-American conference, embracing all Latin-American nations and the United States, is scheduled to meet in Santiago, Chile. There is little doubt that the date for the Central American conference was fixed with this in mind, in order that the work of the Central American diplomats towards removing causes of unrest and revolutionary activities within their own borders may stimulate the larger conference toward similar measures affecting all of Latin America, and of necessity, the United States.

Storm All Gone, Prophet States; Sun Shines Again

When the sun god's son got his father to consent, against his better judgment, to allow the youth to drive the fiery steeds who had been drawing the sun chariot along its course through the heavens each day, something happened. The iron hand of the old man had been guiding the horses in their course, but with the strange, youthful driver they became unruly. They left the beaten path, and instead of circling as they should, took a short cut across the heavens, coming closer and closer to the earth.

The intense heat of the sun at close range injured vegetation. Men were almost roasted, some burned until they were black, others were only thoroughly scorched and left yellow, while some were fortunate enough to escape entirely and were left white.

Such a phenomenon described in the ancient fable is in a way parallel with the happenings in weather circles recently. A few days ago a storm with a clammy breath and immense masses of mountain-like clouds made its way across the country along the Great Lakes regions.

This disturbance, like the unruly sun chariot horses, came close enough to Atlanta to cause rain, then it moved to another position, and the bite of its breath was turned on us when the temperature dropped to 45 degrees Monday night, and early Tuesday morning. But during the day Tuesday the bite of this monster's breath was slightly tempered by the sun, and then, too, the storm was getting further away.

Tuesday night C. E. von Herrmann, local meteorologist, stated that this disturbance had passed on out of range of Atlanta, and that no more drop in temperature could be expected for some time. Several days of wonderfully fine weather, moderately but pleasantly cool, was predicted by the weather man, in view of the fact that this disturbing monster had passed out of our country.

Into Atlanta, headed for the sea, and the polar regions, has gone this influence. By now its breath is taking on an icy nip and in a few hours the magnificent clouds will have turned into water, snow and ice, in regions far distant from Atlanta. The monster who made Atlanta pull out their overcoats and fire up their furnaces will have destroyed its mass, beaten itself to pieces against the forbidding bulwark of icebergs—exhausted its fury—while Atlanta basks in southern sunshine such as only October brings.

It will require some time for another storm mass to originate and come close enough to affect Atlanta, says the weather man.

the assignment of capable men to labor problems, the question of transportation and of distribution and other related subjects.

Third—Assignment of experts to questions relating to waste in the industry and to the charges of profiteering. The commission must make a preliminary report in January, and it is the hope that the investigations already made will supply much of the data. There is no great desire to make recommendations at that time, but more of an intention to build the foundation for the permanent work of the organization. Once that has been established the commission will go on to its final work of preparing recommendations for congress.

Information Plentiful. It is assured that plenty of information as to political conditions has been prepared. Volume of evidence, were made after the Kenyon committee completed its work, and some years ago a congressional committee on industrial relations made a very comprehensive investigation. This information should form a fairly accurate picture for the beginning of the work, it is agreed.

As chairman of the commission, Mr. Hammond is directing the preliminary organization as would a trained engineer and business man. He first wants the co-operation of the public, and it is assured that so long as he is chairman there will be complete publicity. He holds that every one interested in coal—the producers, distributors, and consumers—will be best served by telling the whole truth, because with that confidence established there will be a possibility of working toward improvements later on.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE ORGANIZED TO GET $100,000

A Christmas seal sale campaign through which it is hoped to raise $100,000 for use in fighting tuberculosis in Georgia is now being organized under the direction of C. H. Hall, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., who has joined the staff of the Georgia tuberculosis association to serve as business manager for the state, it was announced by James P. Faulkner, managing director of the state organization.

It is expected that the entire quota of $100,000 will be contracted for by the time sales open, December 1, as one-third of the amount has already been taken. The proceeds of seal sales will go toward establishing tuberculosis clinics throughout the state, toward the educational program by which the disease is being checked.

Examination Dates For Seven Georgia Postoffices Are Set

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel, Washington, October 24.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—Examination dates for seven second and third-class postoffices were announced today by the postoffice department.

On November 21, examinations will be held for the offices at Camilla, Monticello and Union City, all second-class, paying an annual salary of approximately $2,500. Third-class offices included in the announcement are Alhambra, Nashville, Powder Springs and Woodland, and the examination will be held November 18.

For third-class offices, examinations will be held only in Atlanta, LaGrange and Valdosta.

At the same time the list of eligibles for the postoffice at Fort Valley was announced by the department, as follows:

Albert M. Seifert and Samuel W. Hunter.

Realization

In becoming a depositor of the Fulton, we want you to feel that you have begun a relationship with us that will grow increasingly intimate and helpful as time goes on.

We want you to look upon us not just as a big bank, but as a friend, sincerely interested in your success.

We can help you develop your business, invest your savings safely and profitably, build your estate, relieve you of the care of its management and, finally, take upon our shoulders the protection of your estate for the benefit of your family.

For Fulton Service is a very human thing. It lies beyond the teller's or loan clerk's window—in the friendship and knowledge and experience of our officers; and their capacity and desire to help you will be limited only by the extent to which you take them into your confidence.

The Fulton Bank is notable for the friendly, co-operative, accommodating spirit that pervades the entire organization.

There are no barriers of formality here. The president and all other executives are as easily accessible as the receiving teller—to EVEN THE SMALLEST DEPOSITOR. We specialize in interested human service, and we endeavor to treat every depositor just as we would like to be treated.

Begin right now to consider increasing the earnings on your deposits by opening a savings account in our big "Savings Family." Your dreams and hopes will soon become realizations.

Seek Successor To U.S. Attorney For S. Georgia

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel, Washington, October 24.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—It was learned today that a successor to John W. Bennett, district attorney for the southern district of Georgia, was under consideration by officials of the department of justice, with prospects for some announcement on the subject forthcoming at an early date. Mr. Bennett will retire November 1, it was stated.

Concurrently, it also became known that F. G. Boatwright, prominent republican of Cordele, is expected to reach the capital during the week for a conference with department of justice officials. Observers take this as indicative of Mr. Boatwright's appointment.

Children Injured Near Schoolhouses By Automobiles

Two school children were slightly injured Tuesday afternoon in automobile accidents.

Pauline Barnwell, 124 Juniper street, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Barnwell, was struck by a car driven by a colored chauffeur in the employ of J. N. Goddard, of Oakdale road, at a corner adjacent to the North Avenue school. Her injuries were dressed at the Davis-Figures hospital.

Frances Mangum, a second grade pupil at the Tenth Street school, was slightly hurt when struck by a truck as she darted across the street from the school entrance. She was taken to a private hospital by her teacher Miss Ethel Tutwiler, 201 St. Charles avenue.

PRESIDENT EBERT TERM PROLONGED TO JUNE 30, 1925

Berlin, October 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Reichstag by a vote of 314 to 78 today decided to prolong the term of Frederick Ebert in the German presidency until June 30, 1925.

SOCIALIST RULE MAY FOLLOW.

Berlin, October 24.—A socialist government may be installed as a result of the near crisis which confronts Chancellor Wirth's ministry. After a cabinet meeting Tuesday night, at which the critical political situation was discussed, the belief spread that Chancellor Wirth may retire in favor of a socialist, the present chancellor taking the portfolio of foreign affairs in the new government. Socialists are growing bolder in their campaign to replace Wirth, declaring that more stringent measures must be taken against speculation. Their demands are strengthened by the pessimistic outlook for the approaching winter and the deplorable status of the printing press mark.

It is reported that several of the leading economists of the world will be summoned here to diagnose the financial situation and suggest a remedy. Professor Jeremiah Jenks, of New York, who has proposed a British-American loan of $250,000,000 to provide a gold basis for a new currency issue, is understood to be returning. John M. Keynes, the famous British economist, and Cassel, the Swedish economic expert, are expected to participate in general conferences with government leaders.

7 Women Jurors To Hear Woman Tried for Murder

Cleveland, Ohio, October 24.—The murder trial of Mrs. Mabel Champion, 22, charged with the fatal shooting of Thomas A. O'Connell, of New Haven, Conn., in a restaurant here last July, was delayed at noon today when the first venire of 52 prospective jurors was exhausted after seven women and four men had been tentatively accepted.

A call for a second venire of 50 persons was issued by County Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton when court adjourned for the day. The new venire will report tomorrow morning.

Four times during the morning the jury box was filled, but one peremptory challenge exercised by the state and three by the defense left a vacant seat still to be filled. The state has three peremptory challenges left and the defense thirteen.

Throughout the morning court session Mrs. Champion sat far forward in her chair at the trial table, eagerly listening to the opinion voiced by each venireman on the death sentence. Ausley Champion, her husband, was not in the courtroom this morning. He is out on bail charged with assault to kill in connection with the slaying of O'Connell.

Mrs. Champion told newspapermen today that she was not a woman of many names and that she was not concealing her true identity.

"Mabel Champion is my right name," she said. "My home is in Texas. I was married in Brookville, Texas, when I was 16 years old."

Business Outlook Good.

Barnesville, Ga., October 24.—(Special.)—The worst has passed in the business conditions of this section, merchants agree, and from now on a substantial improvement is expected.

The three buggy factories are busy for the first time since 1920. Ten means much to this vicinity, as Barnesville in normal times ships to various sections of the south from 15,000 to 20,000 buggies a year.

Everybody Worked But Father

"Father's stomach trouble seemed to be getting worse all the time and finally he had to quit work altogether. Two brothers and myself gave up school and went to work to support the family. Father had lost sixty pounds in weight and was yellow as saffron and no medicine helped him. Telling a friend about it six months ago, she advised taking Mary's Wonderful Remedy. I got a bottle and it helped father at once. He was able to go back to work a month later, has regained his weight and strength and eats like a wood chopper." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Jacobs' Pharmacy and druggists everywhere.—(adv.)

To Reduce Dangerous Varicose Veins

People who have swollen veins or hunches should not wait until they reach the bursting point, which means much suffering and loss of time, but should at once secure from any reliable druggist a two-ounce bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil (full strength).

By using this powerful, yet harmless germicide treatment improvement is noticed in a few days and its regular use swollen veins will return to their normal size and sufferers will cease to worry. Moore's Emerald Oil treatment is used by physicians and in hospitals and is guaranteed to accomplish results or money returned.

It reduces all kinds of enlarged glands, gonorrhea and venereal diseases and is sold to the injured antiseptic. Jacobs' Pharmacy Co., or your druggist can supply you.—(adv.)

Britain Concedes Point to France On Reparations

Paris, October 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—A modification of Great Britain's position regarding reparations, indicated by Sir John Bradbury at a meeting of the reparations commission this afternoon, will make it possible for the commission to leave Paris for Berlin next Sunday with an unanimous allied agreement on what measures will be imposed on Germany's financial administration for the purpose of averting a total collapse of that country.

The unanimous decision to go to Berlin was taken after Sir John had definitely made known that he, on behalf of Great Britain, was willing to vote to declare Germany in voluntary default of her agreement should she refuse to carry out within a reasonable time requests for the internal reforms which the commission will make in Berlin.

This was a big surprise to the reparations commission, since it was a decided concession to the French viewpoint.

Previous Stand.

Heretofore the British representative had refused to declare Germany in default under any conditions, and also had declined to be a party to any move which might be construed as interfering with Germany's internal affairs.

Sir John had told M. Barthou, the French representative on the commission, that he thinks the commission has the right to "suggest" certain reforms in Germany's financial system, to the end that the budget may be balanced and the mark stabilized. Should Germany fail to make every effort to put the proposed reforms into effect and thereby jeopardize her interest payments, Sir John thinks the time would have arrived for the commission formally to declare Germany's involuntary default.

It is not unlikely the British already have obtained certain concessions from the French government in return. It is reported these may take the form of indefinitely postponing the final decision on the reparations plan, leaving the entire reparations problem in the hands of the commission, a point upon which Sir John Bradbury has been strongly insistent.

France Also Concedes

The exact character of the measures to be imposed on Germany will be decided by the commission between now and Sunday, certain general ideas already having been broadly agreed to. The commission, however, realized that inquiry in Berlin may force changes, and they, therefore, will leave their decisions open to possible alteration.

The gravest of reports concerning the financial crisis in Germany have reached the reparations commission during the last two days. These reports had much to do with the decision of the commission to proceed to Berlin. Roland W. Boyden, the American unofficial observer on the commission, was one of the first to suggest the advisability of an inquiry on the ground as the best means for determining what additional reforms should be imposed.

The members of the commission are agreed that the time has come to take a radical action. Germany's situation is the complete financial breakdown of Germany is to be avoided. The British still hold that a long moratorium will be necessary to place Germany on her financial feet, aside from the good effect the new reforms may have. The American observer is believed to have endorsed this view. The French still maintain that with the faithful carrying out of the new measures Germany soon will be able to resume reduced, but nevertheless substantial, cash payments on her obligations.

Bobby Jones Wins.

Newton, Mass., October 24.—Jesse Sweetser, national amateur golf champion paired with Bobby Jones, the southern golfing star, who is now a student at Harvard, in the Francis Ouimet and Jesse Guifford, two former champions, by one up in an exhibition 18-hole match at the Brimfield Country club. The best ball of the winners was 76 and the losers 77.

MOTIVE IS SOUGHT AT ROSIER TRIAL

Philadelphia, October 24.—Varied testimony as to Mrs. Catherine Rosier's motive for killing her husband, Oscar Rosier, and his young son, was given today when the trial reached its most sensational development thus far. Mrs. Rosier is under an indictment for the killing of both is being tried first for the murder of Miss Mildred Geraldine Reckitt, the stenographer.

"I did it—I must have been crazy," one witness testified she had told him immediately after the shooting, which occurred in the office of Rosier's advertising agency.

To another she said to have made it plain that after would not have committed the crime if she had not been intoxicated. Testimony was introduced yesterday to show that Arthur Rosier, brother of the slain man, and the defendant had been in a restaurant shortly before the shooting and had drunk wine.

Michael J. Toner, a policeman, told of a scene in the hospital where the girl, Mildred, smiled forgivingly on her father, from her death-bed. Toner related how the dying girl, supported by two officers, was brought to say something to incriminate her slayer.

"No, I don't think she meant to shoot me," she said. "I know she didn't mean to shoot me."

Thereupon Mrs. Rosier knelt and kissed the hand of the girl, said the witness. Mrs. Rosier, shivering with sob, buried her face in her hands as this testimony was given.

Alfred Layton, of Pittsburgh, formerly a newspaper reporter, testified that Mrs. Rosier, mistaking him for a physician, fell from her death-bed. He said she begged him to save her husband. He said Mrs. Rosier had had of finding a diary containing romantic writings in Miss Reckitt's desk and in her husband's handwriting.

Paul M. Gottlieb, another reporter, testified Mrs. Rosier was hysterical.

"She told me," he added, "that she wouldn't have done it if she hadn't been drinking."

Norman McLeod, also a reporter, recounted how the defendant knelt beside Rosier and cried:

"Daddy, dear, I didn't mean to do it." Rosier, he said, then lifted up his hand and pushed her away.

Cline Says Charge Wife Was "Bum" Caused Shooting

Hackensack, N. J., October 24.—The charge that his wife was a "bum" and that she had been criminally assaulted, infuriated him to a proposal of a duel, George Cline, motion picture location finder, who is on trial with his brother-in-law, Charles Sullivan, and Althea Thornton for the murder of John Bergen, motion picture actor, admitted on cross examination today.

Cline told on direct examination that when, after months of half suspicion, he finally learned that his wife had been assaulted, he had asked Bergen, whom he said he had befriended, to come to his home in Edgewater and "explain certain kissing parties" and that Bergen was accidentally shot in a struggle for the possession of a gun which he had given him.

"What was your state of mind just prior and after the shooting?" Prosecutor Hart asked Cline on cross examination.

Counsel for the defense objected to the question and was sustained by the court.

Reason for Arming. Taking another track the prosecutor asked Cline why he had armed himself. In self-defense, Cline answered. He denied that he had represented himself as "Mr. Ryan" when he telephoned the actor to come to his home. He said that when he confronted his wife with Bergen she broke down and confessed that he had drugged her in a Saranac Lake hotel and then assaulted her.

Cline said that Bergen admitted the charge, and said: "I'm a dirty dog, shoot me, and he ordered Bergen out of his house."

"I had no idea of shooting him," Cline testified.

He said that it was a remark of the actor's as he was about to leave the house which infuriated him.

"Bergen said, 'George, you know all women are bad,'" Cline testified, "and Mamie is a bum."

Shows Movements. It was then, Cline declared, that he invited Bergen to go upstairs where the shooting occurred.

Cline, in his direct examination, reproduced his movements during the alleged struggle in the second floor room of his home. He denied that the lights had been turned out. He said that that had been the agreement but that as he reached for the switch he saw Bergen leveling the pistol at him, and that as he struggled to wrest the weapon from him, it exploded.

After Mrs. Cline's testimony, which corroborated that given by her husband, had been taken, the jury, which is headed by a 25-year-old girl stenographer, went to Edgewater for an examination of the Cline home.

The trial, which has moved with remarkable rapidity, is expected to be finished tomorrow. The defense, it was said, will rest in the morning and the jury will be charged immediately.

Murder Charged Though Coroner Said "Justified"

Fresno, Cal., October 24.—George A. Harlow, held in jail at Madera following his reported confession of clubbing his wife to death Sunday at Norwalk after finding her with E. C. Blanchard, 19, an alleged affiant, was today formally charged with murder, Mason Bailey, district attorney announced tonight. Preliminary hearing will be held Thursday.

The verdict of the coroner's jury in this case, which was rendered under exciting circumstances, does not concern me legally," the district attorney said tonight. "A crime has been committed and my duty is plainly to prosecute."

"I believe we can establish the slaying and who committed the crime. The degree of the crime is up to the jury in the case, and may possibly be a reflection of the coroner's jury verdict which declared it 'justifiable homicide,'" Bailey declared.

Harlow's attorneys said they will probably enter a plea of temporary insanity.

Harlow, who was reported to be cheerful, was non-committal today. Blanchard began his 90-day jail sentence for a misdemeanor.

GASOLINE TANK EXPLODES; DRIVER EXPECTED TO DIE

Macon, Ga., October 24.—When a gasoline tank on his automobile exploded and ignited his clothing, William A. Dodd was so badly burned today that his death is hourly expected. With his clothes ablaze, Dodd left his car and ran into the front yard of a residence, where the occupants helped to extinguish the fire and call an ambulance.

How Much of Your Money Burned Up
Last Year?

Last year's fire loss in the United States and Canada was over $500,000,000. In the past ten years $1 out of every $4 spent in new construction has been destroyed by fire.

Each year we burn up enough property to build homes for a city of half a million people—a city as large as Buffalo.

To put it another way, $500,000,000 would have built over 14,000 miles of concrete roads at $35,000 a mile, or 5,000 school buildings at $100,000 each.

Fire loss represents a total loss of natural resources together with loss of time, wages, customers, good will and all the disorganizing effects that follow fire.

In addition fire takes annually an enormous toll of human life.

To drive home the necessity and profit of buildings that won't burn is part of the work of the Portland Cement Association.

Time and time again concrete has proved itself the highest type of fire resistive construction. Concrete buildings command lowest insurance rate. Concrete construction means safety combined with longest life at minimum upkeep. Concrete grows stronger with age.

The Portland Cement Association is constantly assisting every movement directed toward reducing fire waste through the medium of better building. Our engineers are at all times cooperating with builders, architects and others with a view to reducing fire hazards.

Aiding the work of fire prevention is typical of the daily service of the Portland Cement Association.

Hardest Job Notre Dame Coach Has Had in Years; Many Teams After Scalp

Barchet, Cullen and Taylor, of Navy Team, Still Feeling Effects of Saturday's Argument With Yellow Jackets.

BY WALTER CAMP.
New York, October 24.—In view of the coming great intercollegiate contests, the situation among football teams of middle western institutions is of particular interest and importance. In the case of Chicago, Stagg has not shown his strength as yet. He is saving everything for the return game on Stagg field with Princeton Saturday. Straight football of the simplest kind was all he needed against Purdue, but he undoubtedly will spring a surprise Saturday. He would not be Stagg if he did not. Changes are still going on down at Princeton. Coach Roper is insisting upon the developing of the kick game. With Cleaves and Vandeweyer he is apparently well taken care of in this respect. He is making a lot of shifts in the line and working hard on the quarterback proposition. Dinwiddie has done some recent work at that position which looked very good.

Notre Dame has a big job at hand. He has had in many seasons, if he can get his team up and running like the team standing there reached last year, he will prove himself a wonder.

West Point is laying for him this year and this is the Army year. It is clear that the best run of the year is the Army year. He is working hard on the overhead game and

SPORTING EDITOR'S COLUMN

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY.

In the next sentence that will be introduced to the class this morning that is warning for guardians of the state at the Monday night fight card at the auditorium and there is real pleasure in store for those of us who are acquainted with the character we are about to call attention to. "One-eyed" Connelly is back in town.

You have probably read that sentence in this standard southern newspaper many times before, for "One-eyed" has been making Atlanta one of his stop-off places since John L. Sullivan won the heavyweight championship from Paddy Ryan.

"One-eyed" pulled in yesterday. He left his private car as the freight train passed through Inman yards, pulled a rugged cap over his one good eye, dusted off the hat, and fifteen minutes later he was in this sanctum sanctorum. Five minutes later this reporter was minus exactly one dollar. That's Connelly's way, you know.

Spaulding, the new Minnesota coach, is building slowly but steadily and when November comes in the offense, built largely around arm strength, is going to show well. The line is good but crude. In its making defense has not been lost sight of.

The Harvard varsity first string team, who had an extra day of rest Monday, were back in the line-up at Cambridge today. Indications are that the regular Harvard backfield will start the game against Dartmouth.

Xale got down to brass tacks in preparation for the Army contest. Clearing is spending considerable time clearing up the kicking department of his game.

Roper will put his charges at Princeton through a strenuous two days of practice as the team must leave Thursday afternoon for the west.

Barchet, Cullen and Taylor, of the Navy team, still are feeling the effects of the Georgia Tech game and are not expected to scrimmage before Wednesday.

TIGERS START GRIND AGAIN

Auburn, Ala., October 24.—(Special.)—Monday afternoon found the Auburn Tigers busy on Drake field rehearsing the various formations and preparing for a heated argument with Coach Pitt's lowly scrub team which will be their menu for Tuesday afternoon.

Fatt Lawrence, who was called home the latter part of last week on account of the death of his uncle, was back at his post today and has held the reins of the Tiger team throughout the afternoon's assemblage. He did not play in the Auburn-Mercer affair of last Saturday.

"Red" Starkins, who has been showing considerable promise in the line this season, was not in uniform on account of a sprained shoulder. The sore-topped Bessmer has shown up well on the defensive and has held his own on the offensive when called on to work in games this year.

Charles Scott is also on the hospital list from injuries about a month ago. Scott with his ability and speed is sorely missed in the Tiger backfield. He is playing his fourth year on the Tiger squad and has been a great asset to the Donahue team for the last three years with his speedy end runs on the offensive as well as his hard tackling on the defense.

"Hard Boy" Pruitt failed to report for practice Monday afternoon and reports this morning indicate that he has never and will be unable to participate in the Camp Bonning game of next Saturday. Pruitt's loss in the Pugnacious lineup would be a serious one. He has started the season in the line and his services can hardly be replaced.

At this time it is not known who Coach Donahue will entrust with the "Hard Boy" job on the right flank. Willard Sims who has worked all down the line except at the center station may be called on to perform at this important place. There is also a possibility that the center station may be left vacant by his brother Rodney next season. Ollinger is playing his first season with the blue-jerseyed team, but shows up well in the line that he has appeared in so far this season.

CONFERENCE NEEDS SPACE

Chicago, October 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—Football in the middle west is rapidly assuming the proportions of successful industry and causing western conference officials to look for a new place to hold their annual meetings. The 1923 annual meeting of the Western Athletic Conference will be held in the city of Chicago, and the officials are looking for a new place to hold their annual meetings. The 1923 annual meeting of the Western Athletic Conference will be held in the city of Chicago, and the officials are looking for a new place to hold their annual meetings.

PAID BY EXPERTS

Since that time he has added some comments by Jim Corbett and Jack Dempsey, while even Georges Carpentier was made to understand that "One-eyed" was no ordinary pugilist. The Frenchman's more no only expressed pleasure in giving "One-eyed" a sample of the signature he was signing up for his four-round performance. He added a line, wishing Connelly all sorts of success.

But Georges didn't offer "One-eyed" a duet to the big things, whereupon Connelly was forced to the necessity of wasting precious moments with a smart-aleck door-keeper who declined to believe that there was any real danger of a fight. "One-eyed" was forced to lower himself in the eyes of the profession by getting over the fence. But he saw the fight, which is the main thing.

Jake Is Through

There is no question about Jake Abel being through with the tin-can fraternity. The one-time champion of the Pacific coast and southern titles, is finished with the profession as Harold McCormick is with monkey glands.

Brother Max told me all about it the other day, but Jake had had it and had made up his mind to quit. Jake, like the cat, insisted on coming back. He sold neckties and underwear, and a living out of it. He remembered, but the call was too strong and back he came.

Funny, Ain't It?

Jake Abel running a hotel, "Red" Herring raising prize-winning dogs, Willie Ritchie out in California racing the finals in a sectional golf championship tournament.

Which brings to mind the fact that athletes can't keep up with the profession all their lives. Then the question: "How do they make a living after their period of usefulness in sports ends?" Jim Corbett syndicates contentment on all branches of athletics and most of it is good. Kling, the old catcher, turned to billiards and made a fortune. Jeffries returned to the quiet pace and is a wealthy truck gardener and rancher.

Partnership Battle Is Settled by Court

New York, October 24.—J. H. Rosalter and John E. Madden, joint owners of Friar Rock, sire of many fast race horses agreed today on the suggestion of Supreme Court Justice Gavegan, who was trying Wadden's suit for an accounting and dissolution of partnership, to continue their joint ownership.

Justice Gavegan decided after hearing evidence by both sides, that Madden had been damaged to the extent of almost a full season because Rosalter departed from the terms of the partnership agreement and kept the stallion at his California ranch. He declared it would be difficult to estimate the exact amount of damage, however, and suggested that Rosalter even things up by letting Madden keep Friar Rock at his Kentucky farm until June 1, 1923.

Wadden will alternate in two year periods between California and Kentucky as the partnership agreement provides.

Carpenter Challenges Siki

Paris, October 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—George Carpentier has issued a formal challenge to Battling Siki for a return bout. Many Beginners Show Up Nicely Over Difficult Druid Hills Course—Mrs. Williams' Short Game Brilliant.

BY MRS. CLARENCE BRADLEY.
Mrs. T. T. Williams won the low qualifying round with a net score of 88, also the trophy given by Harry Stephens, the popular professional at the Druid Hills Golf club Tuesday morning in the opening of the series of golf tournaments that the being staged by The Constitution for feminine golfers at the four principal clubs in Atlanta.

Mrs. Williams' approaching and putting was up to its usual standard. A 20-foot putt was easy for her. Mrs. Williams was not up to her usual form with her wood clubs but her steady golf with the irons gave her the advantage.

Mrs. Dozier Lowndes, southern and city champion, won the low gross trophy with a 91. Mrs. Lowndes was driving from the tees 210 yards consistently. The difficult No. 3 hole, which is 325 yards was made by Mrs. Lowndes in 3, a birdie for this hole.

Mrs. Lowndes went out in 46 and returned in 45 a score seldom equaled by women on the Druid Hills' course. Mrs. Lowndes was second with the low net score, her handicap of 2 giving her a net of 89, one stroke above Mrs. Williams.

Mrs. Cyrus Strickler was third with a gross 117 her handicap giving her a net 90. Mrs. Strickler is getting in golf form again. Her bumpy shots were very accurate and her drive from the tee is gaining in distance with every game.

Mrs. Sciple Fourth.
Mrs. Charles M. Sciple was fourth with a gross score of 125. We predict that Mrs. Sciple will be numbered among the best golfers, if her game keeps improving. She has a natural.

No Rest for Atlanta Prep Teams As They Work for Coming Battles

no game at present has been arranged for the week-end. Although they have no game scheduled for Saturday the team isn't enjoying a rest, but is driving at the scrubs every afternoon. There have been some good games for the early part of November. Coach Bean is keeping his men in the best possible condition.

TECH HIGH AND RIVERSIDE Will Offer Feature Football Attraction for the Week-End.

BY ROY E. WHITE.
All the prep teams of Atlanta were again on the job Monday and Tuesday afternoon in their daily grind for the games that remain on the schedules. Tech High came back from Jacksonville, Ala., with a 14 to 7 defeat on their hands, but it came only after one of the hardest games of the season and as a result of a dropped punt. RULING COSTS GRID BATTLE

Philadelphia, October 24.—William N. Morice, referee of the Columbia University football game at New York last Saturday, today announced that he had changed his ruling in a play which gave the game to New York university by a score of 7 to 6, and that the score should be 6 to 2 in favor of Columbia.

The play in the Columbia-New York university football game last Saturday upon which William N. Morice, the referee, reversed judgment today occurred in the first period.

Columbia was in possession of the ball on her own 17 yard line and being held for a punt. Hoderick kicked from his own goal line and the punt was blocked by Berkowitz of New York university. The ball-bouncing off the listed chest rolled back over the goal line and into the spectators gathered behind the goal posts. There was a scramble for the ball and when the scrimmage was cleared the ball was found in possession of Tech High and was declared a touchdown by Referee Morice.

BAG-PUNCHING CONTEST WILL BE HELD

The management of the Abasco club wishes to announce that a bag-punching contest will be staged Thursday night. This contest will be open to all, and will be held in the spacious gymnasium recently opened by the club. The club rooms and gym are located over the Tudor theater.

This contest is merely a preliminary meet that will lead to a city championship contest held by the Abasco club. This will be held the latter part of next month. Valuable trophies will be offered the winners in all classes.

The Abasco club has proven very popular as an athletic, social and business organization. It offers its members all the advantages of the higher-priced clubs for a very small fee.

PLAN ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Jackson, Ga., October 24.—(Special.)—Twenty-five or thirty of the superintendents and principals of high schools in this section will meet in Jackson Saturday to organize an athletic association on the basis of scholarship. Prof. R. L. Knox, superintendent of the Jackson public schools, is taking the lead in organizing the new association. The visitors will be entertained by the members of the public school and the members of the board of education.

Meeting Postponed

Columbia, S. C., October 24.—Inability of all of the directors of the South Atlantic league to attend today caused the annual fall meeting of the organization to be postponed until tomorrow afternoon. President W. H. Walsh, of Charleston, was unable to attend today. The directors will officially award the 1922 pennant which was won by Charleston and possibly may elect the successor to President Walsh, it was stated.

A railroad is being planned to connect the Pacific ocean with the Amazon river.

Floyd Johnson Wants to Meet Wills Says He Isn't Ready for J. Dempsey

BY ROBERT EDGREN
Floyd Johnson, the big youngster from the coast who recently stopped Bob Martin, wants to fight Harry Wills. Johnson weighs 194 pounds, which is only 20 pounds under Wills' weight, and he says that he is willing to take on a match with Brennan, Mike, or anyone else except Jack Dempsey.

"I don't know enough yet to fight Jack," said Floyd, "but I am going to fight all the others and work my way up to a championship. I think it won't take me more than a year."

Johnson, only 22, has a great chance to make good. Wills, Mike and Brennan are old timers who have seen their best days. Johnson will improve steadily unless he is overmatched, and there are very few heavyweights who would have a chance to beat him.

He is strong, game and aggressive. He hits hard. He is a little slow, but training and fighting will give him speed.

He isn't likely Johnson will have much of a chance with Wills now, but in six months it may be an entirely different story.

DIXIE SCHOOL HELPED NAVY

Annapolis, Md., October 24.—The star backs of the Naval and Military academy elevens this year are both from Johns Hopkins, an institution whose athletic standing by no means approaches its place in educational ranks. Barchet of the Navy and Wood of the Army are far and away the most brilliant runners on their respective teams, and both were broken in as members of the Johns Hopkins elevens. Barchet is in his third year at Annapolis, while Wood entered the Naval Academy last year.

Marion Institute, Alabama, is maintaining its reputation as the greatest preparatory school feeder of Naval academy teams. Clyde King, stroke of the Olympic crew and great football tackle, was a shining example of the kind of men sent from Marion and Eddie Wilkie, gigantic football guard and champion heavyweight wrestler, was another. Norris, whose brilliancy as a football back is second only to that of Barchet, is from the same school, and it sent four members of the class baseball nine this summer.

Heavy Material

The football squad of the Naval academy has five members weighing over 200 pounds, which is unprecedented in the annals of Navy football. They are Crane and Lentz, at present the regular guards, weighing 216 and 212, respectively. The others, all substitute guards, are Hindgens, 215; Strohecker, 204, and Herlihy, 203.

There is no probable arrangement of the Naval academy football team which will give more than one member from the same state. At present the team, with states, is: Left end, Parr, Kansas; left tackle, Boiles, Washington; left guard, Carney, New York; center, Matthew, Colorado; right guard, Lentz, New Jersey; right tackle, Shewell, Missouri; quarterback, Conroy, Utah; left half, Cullen, Illinois (the same as Lentz, who he would displace); Levensky, left half, Nebraska; and Flippin, right half, Kentucky.

JOIE RAY NOW HOLDER OF PUGILISTIC TITLE

Chicago, October 24.—As a world's champion runner, Joie Ray, the Illinois athlete club flyer, also is a considerable individual. This is a boxing gloves tied on his wrist.

Ray stepped out as an amateur in boxing about last night, and defeated Jack Kello, holder of the middle states' title in the 125-pound class. Ray displayed a snappy left hand and also punched well with his right. The judges were unanimous in their verdict after three rounds of lively boxing.

FOUR ARTISTS GIVE CONCERT TONIGHT

Mrs. Olivette Butler Arranges Program—Charlotte Crumley and Miss Eberhardt Are Heard.

A program that promises a period of excellent entertainment for listeners will be given at 9 o'clock tonight from Station WGM, The Atlanta Constitution, in the presentation of Mrs. Olivette Butler, soprano; Miss Alma Garrett Ware, pianist; and teacher of piano; Miss Grace Butler, pianist; and L. T. Johnson, baritone of excellent voice.

The program tonight will be a brilliant recital of classical, semi-classical and ballad type music in piano solos and vocal solos and duets.

Both Mrs. Ware and Mrs. Butler are known to Station WGM not only as unusually talented artists, but as excellent entertainers by radio. Mrs. Butler, who is a pupil of Mrs. Ware, makes her Station WGM debut tonight as does Mr. Johnson, who is a baritone of wide acquaintance in Atlanta.

Every one of the artists to appear on tonight's 9 o'clock program is a singer or pianist of some note.

Mrs. Butler, who is arranging the program for tonight, has been heard before from Station WGM in ballads and popular numbers only, so her part of the program tonight is unusual in that she will sing the more difficult semi-classical and classical numbers. One of her feature numbers will be a selection from "The Holy City."

Mrs. Ware is a pianist of rare talent and her part in the program assures excellent piano numbers. Mr. Johnson has been heard frequently in Atlanta and in addition to singing solos he will be heard in duets with Mrs. Butler.

One of the features of the 9 o'clock program tonight will be a reading of a humorous nature, The Duck and the Kangaroo, by Professor James F. Watson, president of the Atlanta School of Oratory and Expression. Professor Watson has been heard a number of times from Station WGM.

LESSON NO. 182

Radio Measuring Instruments

Many of the ordinary types of voltmeters and ammeters such as are used for making measurements of direct currents and low frequency alternating currents are not suitable for making measurements at radio frequencies. Probably the most used meter in a radio transmitter is the radio frequency ammeter connected in the antenna system and which is important in tuning the set for best radiation. The hot wire ammeter is probably the commonest type of ammeter employed for this purpose. The principle on which the type of meter functions is shown in the diagram.

"AB" represents a fine wire or strip of a metal which is small in cross section from low reading meters and larger for high scale meters. When current flows along the wire it is heated and as a result expands laterally. The spring "S" tends to pull on the wire through the thread "T" which takes a turn around the shaft of the pointer "P" before connecting to "AB" at "W." The greater the current flow through "AB" the greater the release towards the spring and the greater the swing of the pointer across the scale which is calibrated to read directly in amperes.

While the hot wire ammeter depends for its action upon the heating effect produced by the current flowing in the wire and is not affected by variations in frequency, it is a rather delicate instrument and requires careful handling and frequent adjustment to zero. Another form of radio frequency ammeter is the thermocouple type, which consists of a junction point made up of two unlike metal flows. The wire is heated by the current flowing through it and the heat transferred to the junction point of the two unlike metals. The terminals of the junction are connected to some form of sensitive indicating meter such as a millivoltmeter of the moving coil type. When the junction point of the two metals is heated a difference of potential is created which causes current to flow through the millivoltmeter resulting in a deflection of the needle. The greater the heating of the thermo-junction the greater the difference in potential created and the greater the deflection of the meter needle.

For the measurement of filament voltage and current of vacuum tubes, operated from a direct current source, meters of the moving coil type are usually employed. This type of meters consists of a coil of wire suspended between the poles of a permanent magnet so that the coil may rotate. When current flows through the coil a magnetic field is set up which opposes the field of the permanent magnet and forces the coil to rotate slightly on its axis. The greater the current through the moving coil the greater the rotation of the coil and consequently the greater the movement of a pointer connected to the coil. Meters of this type are universally used for direct current measurements.

WHEN ACES PLAY

Dances Frequently Held to Warner's Radio Programs—Aces Introduce Number by Radio.

When Warner's Seven Aces, The Atlanta Constitution orchestra, plays from station WGM, they are frequently accused of causing certain of the younger, and it might be said, the older people, too, to have a curious inclination to wiggle their toes down in the center of the shoes, then their heels and finally their whole frames in one of the newer dances.

Last night was a record night for this sort of sensation, according to telephone calls to station WGM, after the Aces concluded their program. Well, it started during the program when a young lady in Kirkwood called station WGM and said she and some friends were engaged in tripping the light fantastic to the etherial waves from station WGM. Would the Aces please play "Sewanee River Moon"? They most assuredly would.

And the way the Aces gave this young lady and her friends dance music was enough to stir anyone who knows the rudiments of the dance to wiggling anxious toes.

After the Aces stopped their music, half a dozen people called station WGM and said they were generally dancing every evening that the Aces played from station WGM, and some of them said they had just finished dancing to the syncopation of Messrs. Warner, Brannon, Bennett, Pritchett, Buckner, Pittman and Hudson.

"I think there is the most heavenly dance music I ever did hear!" exclaimed one sweet young thing over the phone. At least she gave the impression of being young, and certainly very sweet, if her voice would be taken as an indication.

Last night Warner's Seven Aces "tried out" "Why Should I Cry Over You?" on their radio audiences. And it went big, too. The wiggles never have introduced a number but what it went over big.

They opened their program with one of their best specially arranged offerings. It was "Georgette."

Several request numbers played included "Lonesome Mama" and "Low Down Blues."

The third and, to some, the most interesting of the 9 o'clock Aces will be back with another of their great dance programs for listeners to station WGM.

LISTENING IN

Apparently revealing the usual order of things in the electrical world, the Bureau of agricultural economics, United States department of agriculture, cotton ginning, specialist in district, B. O. R. E. has been toward reducing the size of the apparatus as the capacity or power in the various types of electrical equipment, which, though of large size, yet nevertheless accompanied the same result as the still larger equipments of former days. Now comes the vacuum tube, only slightly larger than the old style, but which, though of the work of the alternator, is discovered in its design and reason to believe that the size of the transmitting units will be still further reduced.

W. O. W. OFFICIAL INDICTED BY JURY FOR EMBEZZLING

G. K. Churchill, former custodian of funds for the sovereign grant, Woodmen of the World, was indicted by the Fulton grand jury Tuesday for the alleged embezzlement of $3,300 in funds belonging to the order to his own use.

Churchill was arrested several days ago for forging counter-signatures to a number of checks on the Woodmen, and was subsequently indicted for forgery.

W. H. Morgan, for whom a warrant charging larceny after trust was issued Monday on complaint of an officer of the Macabees, a fraternal insurance order, was arrested Tuesday and placed in Fulton tower in default of $2,000 bond.

It is alleged that while holding funds of the organization he used $1,000 for his own benefit.

An emphatic denial of the charge that he had misappropriated funds belonging to the Woodmen was made by G. K. Churchill Wednesday night. He was released on $5,000 bond. Attorney Len B. Guillebeau represents the defendant.

Water Main Breaks In Hemlock Section, But Is Soon Repaired

The water main break of Tuesday morning at Fourteenth street had been repaired and normal water pressure restored Tuesday afternoon.

For a few hours Atlanta office buildings and residences located on high elevations were either without water service or experienced low pressure, on account of the burst water main leading from the Hemphill station.

The break occurred in the 46 3/4 inch pipe which brings water to a large building of residence and business Atlanta, W. Zede Smith, superintendent of waterworks, rushed a repair crew to the scene and the line was soon restored.

"Wife Was Rough," Says Hubby's Suit For Total Divorce

Should a wife push her husband down the steps? Should she cut her coat to shreds in his absence from home? When he remonstrates with her for going with other men should she grab a broom and run him down? Fulton superior court will decide those questions for J. B. Suttles, if, as his petition claims, his wife did all those things to him. He seeks a total divorce. They were married on January 25, 1922. He is represented by Attorney Louis H. Foster.

BOY ESCAPES DEATH WHEN BICYCLE SKIDS

A narrow escape from sudden death or serious injury at the last, was the experience of Raymond Cobb, a Deatur boy, when his bicycle skidded on a wet car track and threw him in front of a heavy truck at the corner of Marietta and Cone streets Monday afternoon. Cobb was crawling in the youngster got out of the path of the moving vehicle, leaving his bicycle to its fate.

ON EUROPEAN NEWS

New York, October 24.—The bond market turned decidedly weak today in response to the further break in foreign exchange, which brought a flood of foreign securities into the market. Prices crumbled throughout the day, nearly two score active issues showing losses of 1 to 2 points.

Foreign bonds, as a group, suffered the most.

Except for a rise of 12 cents on $100 in the Liberty 3 1/2's, all American government securities also were reactionary, the net losses ranging from 2 cents on the uncalculated Victories to 24 on the first 4 1/2's. The new 4 1/4's fell 10 points back at par.

The sharpest reaction in the railroad list came in Illinois Central, which was off 3 3/4 points. Norfolk and Western convertible 4's opened higher, but nervousness over today's late dividend meeting caused a reaction which carried them down 2 points below last night's close.

After the market opened, the directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of $3.75 on the common and an extra dividend of $1.

Trading in industrials was not as active as in railroads, but losses of 1 to 2 1/2 points were noted in Magna Copper 7's, Commonwealth Power 6's, Wilson convertible 4's, Cerro de Pasco 5's and Central Leather 5's. Invincible Oil 8's were one of the few exceptions to the downward trend, selling around 110 at which price they will be retired November 24.

Totals, par value, were $18,534,000.

Announcement was made that Blair & Company had purchased the $5,000,000 7's of the Cuban Republic, which probably will be offered publicly later in the week. Present indications are that the $5,000,000 Cuban loan may be put out within the next two weeks.

New York, October 24.—Further trading was absorbed on reaction from an opening advance in the cotton market today, and prices made new high records for the season. December contracts sold off from 23.50 to 23.00, and advanced to 23.12, closing at 23.12. The general market was steady, 35 to 40 points net higher.

The market opened firm to 30 points higher in response to higher Liverpool cables than expected and reports of an improving trade in Manchester. Realizing at the initial prices carried December back to within 3 points of yesterday's high record. This eased the market off and the disposition to take profits may have been increased by the relatively easy selling of cotton. The market was influenced by the circulation of notices representing about 3,000 bales, October eased off to 23.35, or 15 points net lower, but the decline in the later morning was checked around 22.40 for January or about 4 points above yesterday's closing quotation.

As soon as offerings subsided the market turned firmer on a combination of the early buying movement and demand became more general on bullish reports from the southern spot markets and claims of continued firmness in cotton goods from Liverpool. The market advanced to 23.85, making net advances of 45 to 57 points on the more active positions. Last prices were within 10 to 12 points of the best, a number of cables received here from Liverpool reported an increased trade in Lancashire, but said that prices still were unsatisfactory for cotton goods. The market here for cotton goods said that business was less active but that prices were firm. Reports for the day were 18,553 bales making 1,411,416 lbs. for the week ending October 24, 1933, against 1,384,472 for the week ending October 23, 1933. United States port stocks 1,019,500.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON MAKES BIG ADVANCE

New Orleans, October 24.—Pronounced strength was on display in the cotton market today, following a period of rather unsettled trading around the middle of the morning. The long side, after small net declines had been established new buying appeared and in this movement the market here was absorbing all the offers. In the late trading buying became general and it forced prices 47 to 51 points higher than the close yesterday. The close was 23.42, or 46 points net up on the day with December at 23.42.

There was a rush to buy on the opening, and a number of shorts were sold at 23.20 points up, but this initial advance did not last long, being met by extensive realizing sales. This early rise was followed by a decline to a higher Liverpool than expected, to continued moderately private reports of improvement in trade in Lancashire.

The period of liquidation lasted until a part of the morning and finally carried the most active months two to three points under the close of yesterday to 22.96 for December. Much of the selling was by those who did not care to carry their contracts over the closing tomorrow, but when it was seen that spot concerns were not moving into a new market and determined buying movement developed which was still in force when the market closed.

GERMAN ASTRONOMER REPORTS NEW COMET

Cambridge, Mass., October 24.—A new comet has been discovered by Astronomer Baade of Hamburg, Germany, according to a cablegram received by the Harvard college observatory from Copenhagen.

The discovery was made October 19, and the comet was subsequently observed on Sunday by the Danish astronomer Stroejergren at Copenhagen. The comet was reported to be in the constellation cygnus. It was much too faint to be seen without a telescope. During the interval between Thursday and Sunday, however, it was reported to have increased in brightness from magnitude 11.5 to magnitude 8.

New England.—The people of this district will join in a community thanksgiving prayer meeting Sunday to pay homage to the Divine Providence which heard their prayers of May 28, and sent the greatest wheat and grain crops in the history of farming in this area.

HAIR DON'T STOP FALLING ITSELF

35c "Danderyne" Saves Your Hair—Ends Dandruff!
Delightful Tonic

Don't lose another hair! Don't tolerate destructive dandruff. A little Danderyne now will save your hair; thicken and strengthen it; double its beauty.

Falling hair never stops by itself! Dandruff multiplies until it forms a crusty scale, destroying the hair roots and all, resulting in baldness.

Your druggist will tell you that "Danderyne" is the largest selling hair-saver in the world because it corrects and tones skin, ailing hair of men and women every time. Use one bottle of Danderyne, then if you find a single falling hair or a particle of dandruff, you can have your money back.—(adv.)

Well Laid Out

The system of numbering and naming streets in great cities has saved untold trouble for millions of persons.

Especially nowadays it would be a difficult task for you to find a business establishment or private residence if the streets were not arranged as they are.

Another great trouble saver is the system of classified advertising found in The Constitution. It can save YOU hours of useless searching for the articles you need.

What the residents of Atlanta have to offer at bargain prices are classified, and that means a saving to you of money as well as time.

So when YOU want to profit in a twofold way—start reading the classified ads in The Constitution.

Classified ads are class A-1!

BIRTH OF BABES HAS BEEN AIDED BY RED CROSS

Three hundred child birth cases have been attended by visiting nurses of the Atlanta Red Cross since January 1, it was brought out Tuesday, when an effort was launched to fill a "loan chest" by which baby clothing will be provided for needy families.

One of the fifteen nurses in the Red Cross devotes all her time to this line of duty. The nurse service is under the direction of Miss Hadden.

The necessary clothing and attention are provided by the nurse, and if it is an exceptionally needy case food is also supplied, according to Mrs. W. E. Mansfield, chairman of the production committee of the Red Cross.

Every member of the Atlanta Motor club will be asked to co-operate in the sixth annual roll call. Atlanta chapter American Red Cross, it was announced by J. M. Van Harken, president of the club. Members will be given posters to be stuck on their windshields during the duration of the money drive.

NO CHANGE IN POLICY REGARDING PALESTINE

Colonel Josiah C. Wedgwood, M. P., vice president of the British labor party, who is now touring the United States in the interests of the Palestine foundation fund (Keren Hayesod), in a statement issued through the headquarters of the fund on the present political situation in England, said that the change of government will produce no change in British policy in Palestine. He believes further that the Palestine issue will not figure in the campaign in case there should be a general election at the present time.

The Balfour declaration, said Colonel Wedgwood, "has become an integral part of British foreign policy and no party will declare itself against it. In any case such opposition would find no support in the English electorate. The labor party is firm for the complete and speedy realization of a policy which shall enable the unhindered development of Palestine as the national home of the Jewish people. The party is opposed to all restrictions on immigration and is in favor of a liberal constitution which shall be in the interests of the general population and of the Zionist cause."

BUSINESS MEN'S CLUB WILL HOLD LUNCHEON

The regular weekly luncheon of the American Business Men's club will be held Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce cafe. The meeting will be in charge of the membership committee, of which E. O. Johnson will act as chairman. A roundtable discussion of business pertaining to the future plans of the organization will feature the meeting.

SEVEN NEGROES BREAK JAIL BARS AT MADISON, GA.

Madison, Ga., October 24.—Seven negro prisoners made their escapes from Morgan county jail last night. After breaking their cell door the negroes went through the roof of the jail and made a long drop to the ground by means of ropes. The escaped prisoners are Dock Jackson, charged with burglary; Will Moore, charged with burglary; Henry Allen, burglary; and Jesse Mathews, Wilbur Riley, Lewis Sanford, and Sam Phillips.

Governor Proclaims Forget-Me-Not Day For Wounded Veterans

By proclamation of Governor Thomas W. Hardwick, November 4 has been set aside as "Forget-Me-Not" day, and all the citizens of Georgia are urged to contribute liberally to the disabled veterans of the world war who will seek funds on that day to alleviate distress among the wounded heroes of the war.

The disabled veterans of the world war will conduct their campaign for "Forget-Me-Not" day, and the money obtained will be used to help the 20,000 wounded veterans of the state, 4,000 of whom are in Atlanta. The local campaign of the disabled veterans is in charge of Dr. Louis Prosterman, and will be conducted by women of Atlanta on November 4. Contributions will be made to these ladies, who will be stationed on the streets and in the office buildings of the city.

A few weeks ago Mayor James L. Key issued a proclamation setting aside November 4 as "Forget-Me-Not" day, and the drive of the disabled veterans has been endorsed by leading civic organizations such as the Rotary, Lions, Civitan, Kiwanis, and other clubs, the chamber of commerce, and the American Legion.

UNEMPLOYED RANKS NOW FAST THINNING

Washington, October 24.—Within a year, the country has reabsorbed a large portion of the 4,000,000 unemployed workmen, and only the continuation of the railroad shopcrafts strike in western states is retarding a complete return to normal working conditions.

These facts are revealed in a special survey just completed by the United States employment service based on telegraphic dispatches received from the federal-state directors of thirty-seven states.

Normal employment conditions are reported for Alabama, Arizona, Colorado, Connecticut, District of Columbia, Georgia, Indiana, Kansas, Louisiana, Maryland, Michigan, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Texas, Tennessee, Virginia, Washington and Wisconsin.

Those states still hampered in their return to normal industrial conditions by the shopmen's strike are: Arkansas, Missouri, Montana, North Carolina, Oklahoma—in this state the outlook for the winter is considered "only fair"—and Wyoming.

Conspicuous in industrial recovery are California, where the number employed to date "will exceed by 15 per cent the number of employed a year ago"; Illinois, where the industrial situation "is better than it has been in the past two years"; Kentucky, where the lumber industry is showing marked shortage of help; North Dakota, which reports a steady, increasing demand for farm hands; and West Virginia, where the supply of common labor is not equal to the demand.

Reports on conditions in the following states were not included in the survey: Delaware, Florida, Idaho, Maine, Mississippi, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, South Dakota, Utah and Vermont.

"Side by side they shared the hardships of war. Today, with the same rich juice of the grape, may they work together to maintain that peace which they fought to secure."

NOT one American in a hundred, however well educated, really knows how the rest of the world stands on the drink question. Nothing could be more timely, therefore, than the series called "The World War on Booze," by Frazier Hunt, now running in Hearst's International. Mr. Hunt went to Europe to make a personal investigation. In our November number, he definitely explodes for us the myth of France as a country of Moderate Drinking.

Men Like Gods

By H. G. WELLS

A New Novel of 2000 Years from Now

A NEW novel by the most important thinker alive today. "Men Like Gods" is vivid with Mr. Wells' imagination about the future—no problem is too deep for him to settle. But it is also a fascinating and very entertaining adventure in the romance of science. A simple Englishman, driving his little automobile in the outskirts of London, runs off the road and into the Seventh Dimension. The things that happen in that Seventh Dimension are what the Germans would call "kolossal." One of the three great novels in Hearst's International for November.

Why Ireland Made Up with England

ANOTHER year of warfare with the British forces and Ireland would no longer have been able to grow its own food. Michael Collins in the Abraham Lincoln of Ireland—saw no use in throwing away a population to gain a government. To Carl W. Ackerman, the only American in his confidence, he gave his dream of Ireland's future. See Hearst's International for November.

Doctors and Drug Mongers

NO part of education is more important than how to keep well. Paul H. De Kruif, Ph. D. has resigned from Rockefeller Institute to devote his energies to making clear to the public what is unsound among medical claims. His contributions to Hearst's International are of permanent value, not only to the medical profession but to every home. This month Dr. De Kruif speaks frankly about Syphilis; a devastating disease but, nevertheless, a certain cure.

Her Own Life

By ROBERT HERRICK

A Novel of a Modern Woman's Search for Freedom

THE moral education of women is a subject we have no right to avoid merely because it is difficult to discuss. In his new novel starting in Hearst's International, Mr. Herrick has faced the problem frankly. With firm and elevating hand, he takes Lilla Vance, a girl without a father and practically without a mother, and shows how—step by step, over rough places—she works out her own life. For older girls—for some men, married and unmarried—for all mothers and fathers—a story to weigh most carefully—is Robert Herrick's new novel just starting.

By the Author of "If Winter Comes"

WHILE the critics still battle over "This Freedom," A. S. M. Hutchinson's last book, "If Winter Comes" continues a best seller on at least three continents. Read his new story, "The Return of the Swordsman" in Hearst's International for November. It is only one of the eight sparkling short stories you will find in the new November issue.

The Other Henry Ford

NORMAN HAPGOOD reaches—in one of the eight splendid articles in November—the final stage of his "Inside Story of Henry Ford's Jew-Mania"—the use of the vast Ford sales agent system to distribute a personal message of intolerance. Next month begins the other side of the story. In the "Intimate Life of Henry Ford," Allan L. Benson starts a compelling biography of the picturesque details of the great manufacturer's business and personal life.

Tablet Unveiled by DeKalb Chapter.

The unveiling of a tablet marking the site of an old Indian trail on Stone Mountain, by Baron DeKalb chapter, D. A. R., was an interesting event of Saturday, October 21. The tablet is of marble bearing the insignia of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The ceremonies were opened with an invocation by Rev. Dr. O. M. Blackwell, of Clarkston. This was followed by the introduction by Rev. Blackwell of Captain Augustine Sam, who delivered an impressive and fitting address covering the Indian, the colonial and the present day periods. He also read an interesting description of Stone Mountain which was written one hundred years ago.

The unveiling was done by two small boys, Dana Buys, representing the Indians, and James Hodges Wade representing the Revolutionary period. These little boys were appropriately costumed. All present joined in singing "America." A short but beautiful and much enjoyed talk was given by Mrs. Howard McCall, vice recent general of the D. A. R. Another inspiring talk was delivered by Mrs. Eli Thomas, state chairman historic sites committee.

The Joseph Habersham chapter, D. A. R., was represented at the meeting by the regent, Mrs. Christian Clarke, and Mrs. W. D. White, one of the past regents.

The Piedmont Continental chapter was represented by the regent, Mrs. W. O. Mitchell, and the Atlanta chapter by Mrs. H. H. McCall and Mrs. Thomas.

SENSIBLE, THINKING WOMEN

No longer doubt the efficacy of that old-fashioned root and herb medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, because it relieves the ailments to which they are afflicted. In almost every neighborhood there are living witnesses of its wonderful effects. Therefore, if you doubt its value or power to help you, ask your neighbor. In nine times out of ten she has been benefited by its use or knows someone who has. It will pay you to give this root and herb medicine a trial.—(adv.)

U. D. C. State Convention
Opens Auspiciously at Decatur

The twenty-eighth annual convention of the Georgia division, U. D. C., opened auspiciously on Tuesday evening with a program of welcome and good feeling, the meeting held in the First Methodist church at Decatur.

Mrs. P. H. Jeter, president of the Agnes Lee chapter, the hostess organization, called the meeting to order, and music by talented young women of Decatur, Misses Christie and Adams, preceded the imposing entrance of the state officers, headed by Mrs. Frank P. Harrod, of Americus, state president, and one of the leaders in the national order. She holds the office of vice president of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. The pages led the way and the circumstance that all the state officers were in evening dress added to the picturesque character of the occasion.

On the stage with the official group were also the speakers of the evening, Captain Augustin Sams extended greetings from the Harold Byrd post, American Legion, and other addresses of welcome were spoken for Baron DeKalb chapter, D. A. R., by Mrs. V. A. S. Moore; Camp Clement E. Evans, by E. A. Warlick; Parent-Teacher association, by Mrs. John DeSassure; W. C. T. U., by Mrs. Wellington Stevenson; League of Women Voters, by Mrs. J. C. Lehardy.

Mrs. Jeter introduced Mrs. Harrod, who took the chair and Mrs. Walter Grace, of Macon, responded to the addresses of welcome. Mrs. L. G. Youmans introduced the past president, Mrs. C. Helen Plante, Atlanta; Miss Mildred Rutherford, Athens; Miss Alice Baxter, Atlanta; Mrs. A. B. Hull, Savannah; Mrs. H. M. Franklin, Tennesse; Mrs. Walter Lamar, Macon, and the distinguished guests were presented by Miss Alice Baxter.

The south's greatest poet, who holds high rank likewise in English literature, Sidney Lanier, was the theme of the principal address of the evening, which was delivered by Mrs. Walter Lamar, of Macon. The purpose of the Daughters of the Confederacy is to preserve and promote the cause of the literature of the south as an illuminating part of its history, and Mrs. Lamar's address proved a valuable document to be added to the organization's compilation of the history of the south, its leaders and its personages. A prayer by Rev. J. N. Haymore closed the meeting.

The first business session will take place Wednesday morning at 9:30 again at the Methodist church. The program will be as follows: Organ, Mrs. J. P. Harlee; invocation, Dr. H. W. Cox; violin solo, Miss Agnes Adams; prayer, composed by Bishop Ellison Capers, of South Carolina; report of credentials committee, Mrs. W. C. Vereen; reading of rules, Miss Rosa Woodberry; report of program committee, Mrs. H. W. Cantrell; roll call of chapter presidents; report of state officers; president, Mrs. Frank Harrod; first vice president, Mrs. W. S. Coleman; second vice president, Mrs. Walter Grace; third vice president, Mrs. L. G. Youmans; recording secretary, Mrs. Oscar McKenzie; corresponding secretary, Mrs. S. H. McKee; treasurer, Mrs. G. P. Folks; auditor, Mrs. R. A. Grady; registrar, Mrs. J. T. Dixon; historian, Miss Mildred Rutherford; assistant historian, Miss Lillie Martin; recorder of crosses, Miss Rebecca DuPont; report of state editor, Mrs. D. B. Small; poet laureate, Mrs. Lulu Kendall Rogers; report of committees: U. D. C. scrap book, Mrs. W. V. Bell, Hawkinsville; legislation, Mrs. J. K. Ottley, Atlanta; world war educational fund, Miss Alice Baxter, Atlanta; Georgia room in Confederate museum at Richmond, Mrs. Walter Jordan, Hawkinsville; foreign libraries, Mrs. T. T. Stevens, Atlanta; gift scholarships, Mrs. Julian Lane, Statesboro; hero educational fund, Mrs. S. G. Lang, Sandersville; marking historic Georgia, Mrs. E. D. Dimmock, Waycross; Southern Women in War, Mrs. Howard McCall, Sr., Atlanta; luncheon at East Lake Country club at guests of Agnes Lee chapter.

Wednesday Afternoon.

8:30 o'clock. Reception by Agnes Lee chapter. Piano and violin, Misses Christie and Adams; prayer, Mrs. G. M. Eakes; vocal solo, Mrs. George M. Napier; chapter reports, beginning with "A" alphabetically, three minutes each; report of committees: extension, Mrs. C. T. Tillman, Quitman; better films, Mrs. A. F. Holt, Macon; many monuments, Mrs. E. H. Jordan, Ellenville; preservation of flags, Mrs. C. E. Pittman, Commerce; Jefferson Davis highway, Mrs. P. H. Jeter, Decatur; Evans S. Dr. and Mrs. Roy Entertain Bridal Party at Supper

Dr. and Mrs. Dunbar Roy entertained Tuesday evening at their home on Peachtree in compliment to Miss Ann Hart and Dr. Murdoch Eguen, whose marriage will take place this evening.

The handsome home was artistically decorated with the effective decorations of foliage plants and fall flowers. In the library tall vases held yellow and flame dahlias and the reception room was arranged with beautiful pink chrysanthemums. The table in the dining room was overlaid with an exquisite fluted cloth, purchased by Mrs. Roy during her travels last summer in Sicily. The handsome table appointments were of Venetian amber glass carrying out a color motif of yellow.

Mrs. Roy wore a gown of yellow crepe, and her niece, Miss Margaret Webb, of Bowling Green, Va., was lovely in brown lace with a silver grille.

Miss Hart wore a dinner gown of blue velvet. Fifty guests were invited including the out-of-town guests, immediate families and the members of the wedding party, who are Miss Hart, Dr. Eguen, Miss Dolly Hart, Alice Orme, Margaret Noglan, Dorothy Haverty, Frances Powell, Sarah Sibbey and Mary Byrd Tate, of Marietta; Aneline LeGrand Freeman, Mrs. Humphrey Wager, Lowry Nicholson, Stanard Eguen, of Minter City, Miss, and John Burke, Dr. Robert Holland, Stewart Coleman, Dr. Wilson Ratliffe, John R. Kurt Mueller Gives Recital At Cable Hall

Atlanta music lovers boast of their city as the music center of the south, and those who heard Kurt Mueller in piano recital last night at Cable hall believe that Atlanta should feel proud of having an artist in their midst capable of performing a program of such difficult selections so faultlessly. Mr. Mueller's tone, technique and musical interpretation is comparable only with the many great artists who have received such ovations at the auditorium during the past few years.

His first number, Scambati's prelude and fugue, which is seldom heard, was a gem of rare loveliness, the big melodies of the fugue, enhanced by velvety tone of the performer, will long be remembered by his audience. The Beethoven Sonata op. 111, which is too difficult for most artists to attempt, was played exquisitely and with the greatest ease. The Minute Waltz of Chopin, arranged as a study by Max Reger, was a thing of beauty, being also exceedingly difficult.

The varied program showed that Mr. Mueller is equally at home in the light and heavy numbers, being a rounded musician. The Stockoff numbers were very modern and made characteristic by his rendition. The paraphrase on Rigoletti, by Verdi, arranged by Litz, which is so familiar to all lovers of good music, was rendered in a style which compared most favorably with that of other great artists. Mr. Mueller is a composer as well as a concert artist and pleased his audience with his composition, "Chiaro."

The program was as follows:
G. Scambati, prelude and fugue, Op. 6.
L. van Beethoven, Sonata, Op. 111.
Mazurka—Allegro con brio, an appassionato.
Arietta (Adagio molto semplice e cantabile).
Walter Stockoff, The Indian, Op. 2.
Walter Stockoff, The Stage Coach, Op. No. 7.
Mazurka, Papillone blanc.
Kurt Mueller, Caprice, Op. 6.
Max Reger, Study on Chopin's Valse, Op. 64, No. 1.
Frederic Chopin, Scherzo, Op. 54.
Frederic Chopin, Berceuse.

Dinner at Capital City Club For Y. W. C. A. Leaders

A very beautiful and elaborate event of Tuesday evening was the dinner given at the Capital City club by Judge E. C. Kontz, in lovely compliment to the national Y. W. C. A. leaders, the distinguished guests who are in Atlanta to attend the national Y. W. C. A. conference.

The club rooms where dinner was served were effectively decorated with quantities of fall flowers, used in artistic arrangement. The centerpiece of the dinner table was a French basket filled with vari-colored blooms. The guests included the distinguished visitors Mrs. Robert E. Spear and Mrs. Edward R. Townsend, of New York; Mrs. J. Scott Parrish, and Mrs. J. T. Crookford, of Richmond, Va.; Miss Mabel Cratty and Miss Isabel Norton, of New York, and also Mrs. Archibald Davis, president of the Atlanta Y. W. C. A., and Mrs. Ernest C. Kontz, chairman of the finance committee of the Atlanta Y. W. C. A.; Mell Wilkinson, E. Rivers, Frank Inman, C. B. Howard, Lee Ashcraft, Forrest Adair, Linton Hopkins, John Manget, Asa Candler, Jr., Dr. Marion Hull, Archibald Davis, J. K. Otley, Albert S. Adams and J. M. B. Hoxie.

The regular monthly meeting of Home Park P. T. A. was held on Wednesday, October 18, at 2:30 o'clock. About 60 mothers attended. It is hoped to double this attendance during the next few months. Home Park school has 640 children attending, and at least 200 mothers should be members of the Parent-Teacher association for the sake of their children, as the meetings are vitally important.

Mrs. J. J. Blackstock's report, as chairman of the relief committee, was read by another member because of illness in Mrs. Blackstock's family. This is the committee which provides clothing and school books for the children who otherwise would be unable to attend school, and it is doing wonderful work. The increased attendance proves that this help was needed.

Mrs. Faith Boyce, chairman of the paving committee, reported that the paving of Calhoun street, and the laying of sidewalk on that street, were being done. The city is doing the work on the sidewalk, and the county, through the co-operation of Superintendent of Schools W. A. Sutton and George Hope, chairman of the public works committee of Fulton county, is doing the pavement. This is a very important improvement, and one which will help attendance and decrease illness in all the grades, as the children can now get to school without walking through mud.

The mothers were urged to register and vote in all future elections, as that is the only way to get action from the city and county on necessary improvements for the school and ward.

A petition was presented, and signed by the mothers, requesting city council to provide sand for the school yard, now red mud, so that the children may play safely there through the winter months, thus getting the necessary fresh air and exercise. Favorable action by council on this petition is expected by all the mothers and women voters of the eighth ward.

The regular meeting of the department of art of the Atlanta Woman's club, Mrs. E. Marvin Underwood, chairman, will be held in the Auditorium this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Dr. Shelton, who holds the chair of Semitic languages of Emory university, will be the speaker and his subject will be, "Ancient Egyptian Art and Architecture." The lecture will be illustrated with stereoscopic pictures taken by Dr. Shelton while in Egypt last year.

On account of Dr. Shelton's engagements, the lecture will be the first part of the program, to be followed later by the business meeting. All club members are invited and non-club members may be admitted upon payment of 50 cents.

Reception at Woman's Club For Visitors

A very elaborate event of social interest was the reception given Tuesday afternoon at the Atlanta Woman's club by Mrs. John Henry Dobbs and Mrs. Harry R. Shockley, in honor of several charming visitors, Mrs. Herbert R. Hopkins, of St. Louis; Mrs. Harry R. Shockley, of Cincinnati; and Mrs. Florence Ponder.

The decorations throughout the club rooms carried out the idea of Halloween. Pumpkins were shaded the lights in the rooms.

The receiving party stood in the long drawing room, which was elaborately decorated by ferns and handsome palms, bunched against the walls. Quantities of autumn leaves and yellow fall flowers completed the effective decorations.

Mrs. Dobbs and Mrs. Hopkins had received with them Mrs. H. B. Hopkins, Mrs. Harry K. Shockley, Mrs. Florence V. Ponder, Mrs. Olive J. Mulliken and Mrs. Mary Butt Griffith.

Their handsome gowns were of black lace, and they wore corsages of Opheleia roses showered with swains.

The punch table, beautifully decorated with ferns and chrysanthemums, was placed in an alcove, at the foot of the broad staircase. A number of the younger set, dressed as witches, were the serving girls. These included Miss Edith Carpenter, Miss Ruth Jolly, Miss Elizabeth Holleman, Miss Olive Hall, Miss Catherine Cox, Miss Christian Lewis, of Montana; Miss Louise Lewis, of Montana; Miss Lorraine Springer, of Georgia; Miss Josephine Bird, of Tennessee; Miss Theresa Bird, of Tennessee; Miss Mary Seward, of Louisiana; Miss Francis Boyd, of Georgia.

The dining room had very effective decorations suggestive of Halloween. The tea table had as a centerpiece a lighted pumpkin, whose base was embedded in nuts and fruit. Surrounding this were silver candlesticks holding unshaded yellow tapers, and silver compotes filled with bonbons in the shape of pumpkins and other fruits suggestive of the harvest season.

A number of beautiful selections were rendered by Helen's orchestra, which played throughout the afternoon. Miss Lillian Le Conte and Miss Winifred Mahoney played several hard selections. Their dresses were of black, and against the yellow tapers, the Halloween colors of black and yellow were very charmingly carried out.

Assisting the hostesses in entertaining were Mrs. C. H. Minton, Mrs. T. Stevens, Mrs. G. H. Brandon, Mrs. Walter M. Bedard, Mrs. D. E. McCord, Mrs. Anne Westaff, Mrs. Frank Burr, Mrs. Will Griffith, Mrs. Benjamin Elms, Mrs. Omar Elder, Mrs. John Gelzer.

About two hundred guests called to meet the visitors.

Mrs. Pentecost Is Hostess at Tea.

Mrs. Mack Pentecost was hostess at a delightful bridge-ten Tuesday afternoon, given at her home on West Peachtree street in honor of her guest, Mrs. Rice Nichols, of Laurens, S. C. The rooms where the guests were received were beautifully decorated by a profusion of cosmos, zinnias and other fall flowers. The attractive score cards were appropriate for Halloween.

The great prize given to Mrs. Nichols was a piece of sheer lingerie. The top score prize and the consolation were French novelties.

Mrs. Pentecost was assisted in receiving by her sister, Mrs. Frances Hurt.

Twelve guests were invited to meet Mrs. Laurens.

Harper-Staley Wedding Is Quiet Home Event

The marriage of Miss Addie Frances Harper and Dr. Albert Edmond Staley, which was characterized by beauty and simplicity, was a quiet event of Tuesday afternoon, taking place at the home of the bride's parents on Poplar street at 3 o'clock.

The ceremony was impressively performed by Dr. Thomas R. Kendall in the presence of immediate families and close friends.

The decorations in the home were of stately palms, foliage plants, sun-lax and pink and dahlias. The altar was placed at one end of the long living room and was formed of palms and ferns as a background for tall pedestals of lilies on either side of which stood cathedral candelabras holding white burning tapers. The chandeliers were entwined with graceful posies of smilax. Preceding the ceremony a musical program was rendered. Miss Edna Mae West sang "Untill" and "All For You" and Miss Louise Smith rendered several violin selections. Miss Mildred Johnson, of Hartwell, Ga., played Lohegrin's wedding march and during the ceremony she played softly "To a Wild Rose," accompanied by Miss Louise Smith on the violin.

Bridal Party.
Miss Eleanor Harper, as maid of honor, was gowned in tobacco brown crepe, the waist was veiled and the skirt beautifully draped, with hat of brown panne velvet. Completing this costume was a shower of roses and valley lilies. The bridesmaid, Miss Anna Margaret Staley, of Roanoke, wore a becoming gown of beige brown moroccan, trimmed with black lace. The bride was dressed in black and her hat was a model of black panne velvet trimmed with feathers. She carried a shower bouquet of pink roses and swains.

The little flower girls were Miss Timothy Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Campbell, and Miss Billy Tracy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hills.

Following the ceremony the guests were entertained at an informal reception. Mrs. George Sargent kept the bride's book. Punch was served on the porch from bowls embedded in mounds of snapdragons, at which Mrs. Howard Hally presided.

Receiving with Mrs. Harper were Mrs. H. B. Byner, Mrs. H. F. Staley, Miss Jeanine Black, Mrs. Edwin Harper.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stark Harper and granddaughter of J. W. Harper, of Harper's Ferry, Va. She is a graduate of Washington seminary, completing her education at Emory university.

Dr. Staley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Staley of Roanoke. He represents an old aristocratic southern family.

During the afternoon Dr. Staley and his bride left for a wedding trip, after which they will reside in their new home which has just been completed on East Lake road, David Hills.

National Y. W. C. A. Leaders Are Honored at Luncheon

Mrs. Edward M. Townsend and Miss Mabel Cratty, of New York, distinguished visitors in Atlanta, who are attending the Y. W. C. A. regional conference, were honor guests at the luncheon given Tuesday by Mrs. Archibald Davis at her home on Peachtree road.

Lovely Decorations.
The house was decorated with quantities of rich autumn foliage and handsome yellow and white chrysanthemums. In the dining room the table was overlaid by an exquisite cover of rare laces and adorning the center was a large silver basket filled with white chrysanthemums. At intervals were silver candlesticks holding yellow unshaded tapers alternating with silver compotes of yellow mints. A buffet luncheon was served, the color motif of yellow and white being emphasized throughout the four courses.

Mrs. Townsend and Miss Cratty are also in Atlanta to be present at the opening of the national Y. W. C. A. regional offices in the Hurt building which office as regional headquarters includes Y. W. C. A. field work in the states of Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina.

Region Secretaries.
The traveling regional secretaries, who will make their headquarters in Atlanta, were also guests at the luncheon and included Miss Margaret

Ralph Tracy. They preceded the bride and were dressed alike in pink crepe de chine fashioned with short waists and petal skirts. The carried white baskets filled with pink roses and valley lilies. Adorning their hair were bands of silver ribbon.

William Paul Green acted as Dr. Staley's best man.

The bride entered with her father, Thomas Stark Harper, who have been in marriage. She was gowned in a handsome three-piece suit of blue Viten's-ear broadcloth combined with crepe romaine and trimmed with bands of ermine fur. The sleeves were flowing and were trimmed with bands of ermine. Her hat was a striking model of black panne velvet trimmed with black lace and with this costume she carried a bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies.

Informal Reception.
Following the ceremony the guests were entertained at an informal reception. Mrs. George Sargent kept the bride's book. Punch was served on the porch from bowls embedded in mounds of snapdragons, at which Mrs. Howard Hally presided.

THE INVISIBLE HUSBAND

By Margaret Murter

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY.

Phyllis Gay, a movie queen who has made a million of every dime and is trying to forget her days as a movie star. Deborah, a little sewing girl, who tells upon Phyllis Gay's gowns in the shop of Madame Marie. One night Deb delivers a gown to Miss Gay's apartment on Riverside drive and encounters a gay crowd of movie folks in a Bohemian studio party. Bertha Reeves, the press agent, is the life of the party. Phyllis, a stout and overbearing director when Deborah instinctively fears. Larry Demarest, the leading man, drives Deb home. Larry assumes a strange sort of interest and sympathy for Deb and warns her against moving picture studios. Deb has lost her heart and head, however, and not long after turns up as an extra at the studio. She was a wedding ring, believing it will protect her from the advances of men, she is wearing an invisible husband, a couple of times in the past, particularly since she decided to change her name from Lorraine to Deborah.

Johnnie, ex-chorus girl—also an extra. She is the director's non-plussed when Deb introduces herself as Mrs. Deborah Demarest. Larry denies that she is any relation, but gossip follows when he takes Deb to dinner. Phyllis becomes obnoxious, but Deb is advised to tolerate the men with "pull." Deb learns that Phyllis was her promotion to Phyllis, but secretly is in love with Larry.

Deb refuses to accept patronage, however. Deb is disgusted with the shop, and the life of Katie, the mannequin. "ugh. I'd hate to be a human clothes-horse!"

INSTALLMENT No. 27

Philosophy and Fate. Deb said to herself as she walked quickly away from the shop. "And folks say the stage is so bad! At least the customers can't come up and paw you, the way they do the models!" Deb had often seen poor Katie attired only in a short knee slip, standing before a garment manufacturer while Madame Marie draped a model to meet the satisfaction of the trade. What could be worse than that? Phyllis had warned her against going to the mountains. She must get home quickly and think it all out. The studio must have telephoned by this time! Perhaps even now they were waiting for her answer—for her to sign the contract for that role of the mountain girl! Of course she'd go to the mountains! Deb was hypnotized by these thoughts. Swiftly her imagination was carrying bright hopes of success. She held her head up very high and walked almost in the manner of Phyllis—slowly, stinkingly! She dreamed herself a famous movie star, folks on Fifth avenue turning about to look after her—chauffeurs touching their hats!

"Hey, get out of the way there, kid, what's the matter?" a rough voice yelled from a motor bus. Deb collected herself and stood meekly at the corner. No, it was too soon—she wasn't famous enough yet to have everyone bow to her the way they did to Phyllis. But it was only the fine clothes that made the difference. "But I'll get those, too, just wait!" Deb dug down into her shabby little black silk purse and clutched a dime. A crowded bus stopped to hustle her on. Up Fifth avenue she was rumbled noisily. It was not a bit like lounging in the pearl velvet limousine. A woman next to her was saturated in cheap perfume—her face puffed thick with rouge. An ugly face, a common face. What faces one did see on motor buses! Who were they all? Where were they all going?

Deb tried to collect her thoughts as the noise and jostle of the traffic continued across 57th street. She tried to remember what it was she wanted to think out. She knew it was the movies, and what Phyllis had warned her against, but all she could keep in her senses was the memory of the luxury of that short hour at Sherry's and the madness of that one moonlight ride with Larry!

"I suppose I'm one of those persons who absorb their environment," Deb analyzed to herself. "I couldn't be like Katie and see things and people as I like without wanting to make them a part of myself! I couldn't go on sewing gowns for other women when I know I'd look better in them than they do! Why should I?" Deb felt a guilty twinge for having Madame Marie in the lurch, as there was a little pang when she thought of the loss of the pay envelope on Saturday, but she had to cut loose something, and you can't run a knee slip half! She pondered.

"What is the matter with me?" Why should I worry. I'm going to get that part—Phyllis said so. Unlucky!

Deb got off the bus and almost ran up 71st street until she came to the ugly brownstone boarding house. "Any message for me?" she panted in the hall.

"A woman's waiting for you! A queer looking lady, and I'd be just as pleased if you'd keep the likes of such people out of my house!" the landlady complained.

"What does she look like?" Deb asked excitedly. She hoped it wouldn't be one of her sisters. She had almost forgotten about them, in fact. Always reaching.

"Red hair. Very wild looking with painted-up lips!"

"Johnnie!"

Johnnie herself poked her toweling head out of the folding door of the parlor.

"You certainly ought to write short stories, missus! Gee, the way you can describe characters! I would never have recognized myself! Red hair, eh? Wild! Painted-up lips! Bah! You look like an Airedale dog!"

"Please, Johnnie, don't—"

"Oh, that's all right. You won't have to worry about this old cut anymore. I suppose you know the news. You're going to leave tomorrow for the Adirondacks!—Ingene in Larry's new pitcher! And me—I'm going too!"

"Yes!" Fritz told me today. I'm to be the village half-wit or something, but anyway, it's three weeks' vacation and saving my board bill in New York!"

"Tomorrow, you say?" Deb was almost beside herself with excitement. "Not tomorrow, Johnnie! Right away!"

"Fritz was trying to get you on the telephone and I told him I knew where you lived and I'd deliver the message. I'm as pleased as you are, babe. You owe something to me—"

Miss Cain Is Honored.

Miss Alice Cain, a bride-elect of November, was honor guest at the bridge-tennis given Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. T. W. Wilkinson, of Spartanburg, S. C., and her sister, Miss Jamie Coleman.

Pink and white dahlias in vases and baskets decorated the reception rooms. The tea table was overlaid with lace and held a silver basket of dahlias, encircled with silver candlesticks with pink unshaded tapers. The honor guest was presented with lingerie and the winners of the top score and consolation were awarded novelties.

Mrs. Wilkinson was gowned in a black brocade gown. Miss Coleman's afternoon gown was of tan crepe.

Miss Cain wore a model of black kitten's ear crepe with a hat to match.

Mrs. Harvey to Be Complimented.

Mrs. Robert E. Harvey will entertain informally at tea this afternoon at her home, 100 East Seventeenth street, the occasion to compliment her mother, Mrs. William Harvey, of Hopkinton, Ky.

Mrs. Frank Mason will pour tea, and assisting Mrs. Harvey will be her daughter, Miss Mary Harvey, Mrs. Sims Bray, Mrs. H. F. West, Mrs. F. J. Paxon, Mrs. J. Little, Mrs. Ban Wylie and Mrs. John S. Spalding.

didn't I fix up your face? Honest, I feel like a mother to you, and I'm so glad I could drink a bottle of vinegar or something!"

By this time the girls had climbed to the fourth floor, and Deb was depositing Johnnie in the only chair in the room with a solid seat.

"I can't believe it, Johnnie! Phyllis Gay told me today, but I almost thought something would happen—some disappointment. It's always been that way with me," Deb sighed as she sank on the bed.

"Say, get over that idea of thinking about bad luck and disappointment. Don't you know that's what makes it happen? Ain't you got no mental attitude? Stiffen up your knees and say: Every day I am getting successfuller and successfuller!"

"That's true, isn't it?"

"I dunno, I read it somewhere, but it works. You ought to try it."

Atlanta Daughters Honor State Officers of U. D. C.

The sweetness of lavender and old lace was mingled with the chic and verve of georgette when Daughters of the Confederacy gathered Tuesday at Atlanta chapter house, the local women acting as hostesses at luncheon for the state officers of the Georgia division on their way to the state convention at Decatur. Robert E. Lee and Jefferson Davis and John B. Gordon looked down from their frames upon women banded together to do honor to the cause they loved. Quite a few of these women were women of the confederacy themselves. Others were daughters of the heroes of the 60s, and the permanence of the order was gratifyingly made evident in the number there of granddaughters.

The red and white flowers of the U. D. C. were everywhere in baskets and vases of chrysanthemums and dahlias and branches of autumn leaves toned in effectively with the brightness of the flowers, while the whole had graceful framework in a piece of southern smilax. The place cards for the luncheon, which seated one hundred and fifty, showed the several flags of the confederacy and told their history.

Mrs. Phillips Presides.

Mrs. Phillips, president of Atlanta chapter, was official hostess and seated at her right was Mrs. Frank Harrold, of Americus, the state president of the Confederated Southern Memorial association.

Addresses Delivered.

Prominent Daughters of the Confederacy who are leaders also in other organizations who spoke briefly were Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Howard E. McCall, vice president general, D. A. R.; Mrs. John M. Slaton, who heads the Red Cross roll call about to begin; Mrs. Frank Mason, treasurer of the Stone Mountain Memorial association, which had its first suggestion in Atlanta chapter, U. D. C.; Mrs. R. K. Rambo, chairman of the woman's commission for Georgia, Bankhead highway.

Among others who spoke or merely acknowledged an introduction were Mrs. Walter Grace, of Macon; Mrs. Youmans, of Valdosta; Mrs. G. P. Folk, of Waycross; Mrs. John A. Perdue and Mrs. W. S. Coleman, of Atlanta; Miss Ella Powell, of Gainesville; Mrs. Reynolds, of Monroe; Mrs. Charles Rice, of Atlanta; Mrs. Herbert Franklin, of Tennessee; Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, of Madison; Mrs. J. M. Thomas, of Griffin.

A toast was drunk standing to Mrs. C. Helen Plane.

Mrs. Lula Kendall Rogers, of Tennessee, introduced as the poet laureate of the Georgia division, made a charming talk, full of flowers of thought and grace of expression of the old school, and she presented to Atlanta chapter through its president a book of her own verses, many of them dedicated to the confederacy, the south and Georgia.

A beautiful feature of the luncheon was the group of songs by Mrs. Charles Chalmers, in which was particularly noteworthy her moving and lovely rendition of Sydney Homer's "Old Uncle Rome." Mrs. Chalmers was presented by the chapter's chairman of music, Mrs. Benjamin E. Parker.

A happy incident of the responses lay in the statement by Mrs. John K. Otley when she said that the Daughters of the Confederacy had not been just "thought up" by somebody, but were organized to meet a need. The confederate states thirty years ago had wonderful memories, but they were not being remembered, and she told of the outgrowth of the Atlanta chapter from the movement of Mrs. C. Helen Plane to international exposition, which had mementoes of every other war, should show relics of the confederacy. In this work Mrs. Otley acted as secretary. "This body was formed to meet a need, and there will never be a time when it will not be here to meet it," she said, and in keeping with this fact great emphasis was laid on the work of the Children of the Confederacy, whose state director, Mrs. Miller, of Fort Valley, was introduced.

Miss DuPont, of Savannah, custodian for life of confederate crosses, recalled that her mother had helped to make the shirts which the Gate City guard wore when they went to the front, and Mrs. Joseph Morgan, who organized the first confederate memorial association, was present, as was Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, now president of the Confederated Southern Memorial association.

Addresses Delivered.

Prominent Daughters of the Confederacy who are leaders also in other organizations who spoke briefly were Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Howard E. McCall, vice president general, D. A. R.; Mrs. John M. Slaton, who heads the Red Cross roll call about to begin; Mrs. Frank Mason, treasurer of the Stone Mountain Memorial association, which had its first suggestion in Atlanta chapter, U. D. C.; Mrs. R. K. Rambo, chairman of the woman's commission for Georgia, Bankhead highway.

Among others who spoke or merely acknowledged an introduction were Mrs. Walter Grace, of Macon; Mrs. Youmans, of Valdosta; Mrs. G. P. Folk, of Waycross; Mrs. John A. Perdue and Mrs. W. S. Coleman, of Atlanta; Miss Ella Powell, of Gainesville; Mrs. Reynolds, of Monroe; Mrs. Charles Rice, of Atlanta; Mrs. Herbert Franklin, of Tennessee; Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, of Madison; Mrs. J. M. Thomas, of Griffin.

A toast was drunk standing to Mrs. C. Helen Plane.

Mrs. Lula Kendall Rogers, of Tennessee, introduced as the poet laureate of the Georgia division, made a charming talk, full of flowers of thought and grace of expression of the old school, and she presented to Atlanta chapter through its president a book of her own verses, many of them dedicated to the confederacy, the south and Georgia.

A beautiful feature of the luncheon was the group of songs by Mrs. Charles Chalmers, in which was particularly noteworthy her moving and lovely rendition of Sydney Homer's "Old Uncle Rome." Mrs. Chalmers was presented by the chapter's chairman of music, Mrs. Benjamin E. Parker.

A happy incident of the responses lay in the statement by Mrs. John K. Otley when she said that the Daughters of the Confederacy had not been just "thought up" by somebody, but were organized to meet a need. SOCIAL ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. St. Elmo Massengale had as their guests at the Georgian Terrace on Saturday and Sunday, Sir Robert H. H. Baird, K. B. E., prominent editor of The Telegraph of Belfast, Ireland, and owner of several other publications in Ireland; and Major General Sir Menus W. O'Keefe, formerly of County Cork, Ireland, now residing in England. Sir Robert and Sir Menus are brothers-in-law and stopped over in Atlanta a day or two en route to California. Sir Menus was knighted on the battlefield and is now a retired English army officer.

P. J. Boatwright, formerly of Augusta, Ga., will arrive today from Albany to make his home in Atlanta.

Graham L. Johnson is in Florida on a fishing trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam G. Watkins and Mr. and Mrs. Joan Phillips left for Augusta Tuesday morning to attend the carnival. They will be the guests for the week of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Banhart.

Miss Margaret Webb, of Bowling Green, Va., is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Dunbar Roy.

Albert Tidwell, of Quitman, is in the city.

Mrs. Herbert M. Franklin, of Temple, state director Jefferson Davis monument and chairman historical programs for the U. D. C.; state librarian D. A. R.; and her mother, Mrs. Louis Kendall Rogers, state poet laureate, U. D. C., are guests of Mrs. J. A. McCrary, of Decatur, for the state convention, U. D. C.

Miss Nell Gatins, who has been ill for several months is improving and will soon leave for Washington, D. C., to spend the winter with her sister, Mrs. Joseph D. Clark.

Miss Mattie Sue Cheek left Wednesday for Elberton, Ga., to attend the wedding of Miss Hughie Allen and Harry Thornton, which takes place on Thursday. She will visit relatives before returning home.

Mrs. J. M. Thomas, of Griffin is the guest during the U. D. C. convention of Mrs. McD. Wilson, at Bally Clare.

Mrs. E. P. Wilkinson and Miss Augusta Egan, of Columbus, Miss., are at the Georgian Terrace for the Hart-Egan wedding today.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Adair, of Lakemont are at the Georgian Terrace for a few days.

Miss Martha Berry, of Rome, Ga., spent yesterday in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Haden are in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. John Herdman Harland, whose marriage took place last week in New York, will be at home to their friends in Atlanta, at 285 Ponce de Leon avenue, after November 10. Mrs. Harland was formerly Miss Wilhelmina Drummond.

Miss Rainwater Weds Mr. Boland.

The marriage of Miss Blanche Rainwater and Herbert Cameron Boland was solemnized Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Joseph Hillman Rainwater, in Boulevard circle. Rev. Willis A. Sutton, of the Wesley Memorial church, performed the ceremony in the presence of the families and close friends of the bride and groom.

The home was beautifully decorated with ferns and cut flowers. An improvised altar was formed of palms and ferns in the reception room, where the ring ceremony was performed. The bride was radiantly attractive in her gown of dark blue Canton crepe fashioned on simple lines. She wore a becoming hat of black panne velvet. Her bouquet was of bride's roses showered with swansonia.

The groom is the son of Mrs. J. M. Boland and the late Rev. J. M. Boland, formerly a member of South Georgia conference. He is connected with the Atlanta postoffice.

Miss Katie Mae Barker, maid of honor, wore a modish gown of dark brown charmeuse; she carried a bouquet of American Beauty rosebuds and ferns.

Dr. Charles Galloway Boland, of Emory university, a brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride's book was kept by Mrs. Love Rainwater.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Boland will be at home to their friends with the bride's mother in Boulevard circle.

Mrs. Jackson Is Honor Guest.

Mrs. Alfred Jackson, of Valdosta, who is visiting Mrs. S. W. Foster, was honor guest at the bridge-ten given Tuesday by Mrs. John Sage, at her home on East North avenue.

Twelve friends were invited to meet the attractive visitor.

The house was decorated with chrysanthemums and cosmos in silver baskets. The table was overlaid with lace and held in the center a centerpiece of chrysanthemums. The honor guest was presented with hand-made handkerchiefs, the top score was a box of stationery and the consolation a bud vase.

Thursday Evening Class to Meet.

The Thursday evening class at the Club de Vingt will meet this week and every week hereafter during the winter.

The class met last Thursday evening with a large number of its former members.

The Gifts That Last—

For the Little Folks

In your house of treasures isn't there some gift from childhood days? A napkin ring of quaint design, a ring, a bracelet or a necklace. Possibly a little dented spoon, that baby teeth have marked?

Just so the Baby gifts of today will in later years bring sweet remembrance.

If you value the parents' friendship, remember the children.

We have many Gifts for Little Folks—

Buying at Home Urged by Women

For years the undersigned have been preaching in these paid advertisements the policy of buying at home—buying the GOOD THINGS that are manufactured right here at our elbow.

Gradually this idea is growing—spreading. People realize that it makes a state—a community—prosperous when its home enterprises are given a strong, liberal patronage.

The Woman's Club of Macon recently adopted some strong resolutions along this line. We reproduce them and recommend them to all the women's clubs of this state:

Whereas, there has been much preaching for diversified farming, urging the farmers of Georgia to raise their own food supplies, and,

Whereas, this advocacy is bound to cause many of them to produce a surplus of various crops, making it necessary for the people of the market places to provide facilities for disposing of these surplus food commodities, and,

Whereas, it is our belief that the system of all-cotton has been changed to one of diversified farming by reason of the agitation and the advent of the boll weevil; therefore be it

Resolved, that we, the Woman's Club of Macon, with a membership of more than 200 women, do recognize our duty in the premises as purchasing agents and directors of the homes, and that this duty consists of seeing to it that everything which is bought by us is Georgia products, insofar as possible. There is Georgia butter now to be had in regular standard packages and of standard quality. This is No. 1 butter, as against No. 2 butter shipped into this state from other sections of the country. There are chickens, eggs, pork, beef, meal, wheat, potatoes (both Irish and sweet potatoes), onions, turnips, lettuce, tomatoes—in fact all kinds of supplies for the table grown in Georgia that must be preferred and encouraged by Georgia housewives. There are untold kinds of cotton goods, made from Georgia cotton, that might be used with a little investigation and thought applied, whereas, at this time practically all of the women of the state are following the line of least resistance and in a careless and haphazard way buying in many cases inferior goods shipped into Georgia from other states.

Resolved, that we call upon all other organizations, and especially those made up of women, to apply themselves to this important work and endeavor to afford that co-operation and encouragement to Georgia enterprise that is so necessary to the welfare of every one of us. Georgia can and will grow everything that is needed for the maintenance of a family, if there are markets provided for these commodities. And there is no better time ever to be had than right now, when the cotton crop has been curtailed of necessity and the agricultural population is forced to turn to raising supplies that are not affected by the boll weevil.

Call for and use the good things made at home.

A $1,000 CASH PRIZE Is Waiting for You!

Get Your Complete Set of Pastime Pictures

Plenty of Time — Answers May Be Submitted 10 Days After Close

Win $1,000 in CASH. Why not?

Play the Familiar Quotations Pastime Game. No matter if you haven't yet started you can WIN. YOU CAN GET ALL SIXTY PICTURES NOW and stand just as good a chance of winning as anyone else.

The first 30 Pictures can be obtained by purchasing an OFFICIAL CATALOGUE OF TITLES (40c). The title answers that can win YOU $1,000 in cash are ALL in this catalogue.

The last 30 Pictures can be obtained by purchasing an OFFICIAL ANSWER BOOK (80c). This Answer Book contains space for three selections and saves you the bother of collecting extra forms published daily, in case you want to give more than one answer. These two books are all you need to win. The rest is easy—hunt and find your titles in the catalogue.

After the last picture is published ten days are allowed in which contestants may prepare their selections before submitting them.

Someone will win $1,000 in cash soon—why not you?

Study These Points Closely

Keep a duplicate list of your selections, before submitting your set or sets of answers. It is not necessary to save the forms appearing in the paper every day to do this. Keep them on any kind of paper.

A "set" of pictures means Illustrations No. 1 to No. 60. In this "set" you may give one, two or three title answers to each picture. (Either by saving one, two or three copies of the daily illustration, or by writing them in the official Answer Book.)

A single contestant may submit from one to six such "sets" or groups. In each "set" or group you may arrange quotations previously used, any way you like.

In arranging sets of answers to be submitted, clip or bind all loose pictures together in proper sequence, and indicate, which is your first, second or third choice. On a blank outside sheet write your full name, address and number of titles submitted.

The Prizes: $2,000 In Cash

First Cash Prize	$1,000
Second Cash Prize	500
Third Cash Prize	250
Fourth Cash Prize	100
Fifth Cash Prize	75
Sixth Cash Prize	50

Eighth Cash Prize	10
Ninth Cash Prize	10
Tenth Cash Prize	10
Eleventh Cash Prize	10
Twelfth Cash Prize	10
Thirteenth Cash Prize	10
Fourteenth Cash Prize	10
Fifteenth Cash Prize	10

Here Are the Rules

1. The Familiar Quotations Pastime is open to any man, woman, boy or girl who is a resident of Georgia or adjoining states, except employees or relatives of employees of The Constitution.

2. The Familiar Quotations Pastime consists of sixty pictures. A contestant may submit three title answers for each picture. Selection of titles will be found in the Official Familiar Quotations Pastime Catalogue. The Catalogue of Quotations may be purchased at the office of The Constitution at 40 cents per copy.

3. Each person may participate only as one contestant, and only in his or her own name. Each participant may submit as many as six complete sets of title answers (from one to three answers for each of the sixty pictures in each set). Each set of answers will be judged on its own merits. A duplicate list of the selections submitted should be retained by the contestant for self-checking purposes.

4. Three methods may be followed in preparing answers: (1) Each picture published during the 60 days of the Pastime will be accompanied by an official Answer Form, with blank ruled lines for the inscription of one choice of title. If more than one choice is given, each must be written on a separate form. (2) Participants may submit handwritten (not traced) families of each picture and answer form on sheets of white paper six inches. (3) Quotations may be submitted in the convenient Familiar Quotations Answer Book, sold at 80c per copy.

5. Selections of quotations must not be sent in until the close of the Pastime.

6. The winners of the Familiar Quotations Pastime will be selected by three judges having no connection with The Constitution. It is understood that participants entering the Familiar Quotations Pastime accept their decisions as final and conclusive.

7. The fifteen awards in the Pastime will be made to the fifteen highest ranking answers on the basis of having achieved the most appropriate or "best" selections of quotations. If there is an equality between two or more contestants, the decision will be made by the judges between the tying answers according to superiority in the following requirements: (a) The least number of incorrect selections (the titles which are not "best"); (b) The relative position of the contestant's "best" answer—whether first, second or third choice. In the event of an ultimate tie, each tying contestant will receive an equal prize.

8. Use exactly the same form and spelling of quotations in your selection as you find listed in the Familiar Quotations Pastime Catalogue.

9. Any contestant may have his friends assist him in selecting titles for the pictures. However, only one prize will be awarded to any one household; no one will prize be awarded to more than one of any group outside the family, who have worked together. The judges reserve the right to discard any set of quotations not complying with the rules and where unfairness is obvious.

The Constitution's Novel-a-Week

The House of the Falcon

By HAROLD LAMB

Next Week, "The Millionaire Burglar"
By Harold Lamb

It was a poor kind of garden, after all, the roses thin and fast falling to the earth. Weeds overgrew the paths and the stone walls. Edith knew, however, where certain blue grass flowers were still to be found. She sought for them in the swiftly gathering twilight that falls upon the valleys when the sun is obliterated behind the mountains. That morning she had read Donovan's love in his eyes—trusting eyes that could not lie.

Edith was stooping over a verdant tangle in a corner of the wall when she saw a tall, white clad figure moving toward her. With her flowers grasped, she rose and extended a hand, smiling not altogether steadily. She had not expected Donovan so soon. Then the blue blossom fell at her feet, and the hand dropped to her side.

The man was Money.

Edith watched, bewildered, as he hastened to her, stooping as he did under the wall.

"Miss Rand," he said quickly under his breath, "I did not mean to startle you. We must be very quiet. We must leave at once." He was breathing heavily as if he had been running and a muscle twitched persistently in his cheek.

"Your father sent me." The man spoke impatiently. "I have risked much to come here tonight. Do not wait to get any other clothing. I have horses and men up the mountain. We came through along a goat path."

"My father? Is he here?"

Money swore under his breath and leaned nearer.

"No! He is sick. Come! You do not understand. You must go or these devils will see us, and that will be the end of us all."

"No," she said. "Donovan Khan will soon be here. I will not do anything without him. Money, intent on the balcony that was shrouded in gloom, caught only vaguely the name. Edith, do you want them to find me here?"

Under his breath he muttered, "Don't think, young lady, that I also am a fool."

He stepped nearer, his hand rising suddenly to her face. She had caught the silk shawl in his fingers. The girl, startled and suspicious, tried to draw away. But Money wrapped the shawl quickly about her head, holding it fast with his hands. He pushed around her shoulders. The other arm caught her close to him, lifted her from the ground.

"Excellency, the night was coming and the garden was a place of shadows. Even so, for the trumpets had blown. An owl could have seen. I am not an owl. How was I to know? All unworthy, thou despitest me. Truly, my sorrow has gripped me here."

Aravang was speaking in his own tongue. As he ended he smote his muscled chest with a knotted fist, and the hollow within his bones echoed like a drum. Air escaped his bearded lips in a long, hissing breath.

Impatiently, Donovan moved. He was standing feet planted wide, at the edge of the balcony overlooking the garden and the gray expanse that was the lake's surface. Under impulse of a fresh breeze the water's main lapped against the stones.

"From the beginning," he said slowly, "tell me what you did and what you saw. I do not blame you. But I must know. Are you sure it was your mistress?"

Aravang granted a disconsolate affirmative.

"Aye. Should I not know the murderer of her voice even from afar? The other I thought to be thee, for it was a white man. Dog that I am, I waited, listening, and fearful to speak to the higher ones. Then she said they name, Dono-van Khan, very loudly. The white man made response, then took her in his arms. I was glad. I have known the longing that is in your veins for the white woman. Aye, I have seen the light of desire in her eyes."

"Aravang," Donovan felt ashamed, as if he had been caught spying on the woman he loved. Then a hot exclamation gripped him, to pass as swiftly as it came and leave him cold.

"By the sound of their passage I traced them. After a long time, at one of the upper goat paths I heard the khannum cry out, once. Am I not her dog? I ran forward to strike and slay, even though I held no weapon—not a knife. In the goat path where the new moon struck through the trees stood a dozen armed men with horses. They mounted and spurred away, two by two."

"To the lower valley. The bits of the horses were muffled, likewise the hard leather of their hoofs. For a space I ran behind seeking for the side of my mistress for the sake of me and went faster. Then the thought came to me that I should seek thee with the news. I waited until I knew they were riding beyond the valley and not to the mosque. Then I ran down the mountain side to the stone house where thou wert sitting."

For five minutes John Donovan was immobile.

"Aravang," he voiced the result of his thoughts, "run through the village, to the mosque. Summon Iskander first, to come speedily here, say—bid all the Sayak leaders and Mahmoud to come. Say that I must speak with them. Go swiftly!"

"Excellency, I hear—the servant rose and dropped from the rail of the balcony to the earth, muttering, 'It shall be done. I am a dog, but a dog can run.'"

Donovan looked at the stars, to mark the hour.

Iskander strode in, swaggering and fully armed. When the Arab saw that Donovan would not speak he glanced curiously at Edith's empty chair.

Others of the Sayaks came, among them the chief and finally Mahmoud. Each one looked at him fleetingly, then knelt on cushions or against the wall, adjusting striped silk robes, and thrusting their hands into the wide sleeves.

"You have summoned us and we are here. The council of Sayak chiefs waits until you speak."

He straightened in his chair and spoke to Iskander.

"Send a rider to the ravine behind the mosque to learn what is to be seen there, where the guard stood. Let the rider report here what he has seen."

Before assenting or refusing, the Arab consulted the other Sayaks with a glance. One, a swaggering Alghan whose evil-smelling wool was bedded with a priceless sword, rose and left the room.

From the road outside came a clatter of hoofs. Donovan was gazing thoughtfully into the fire. "The white woman has left Yakka Arlik," he said.

The faces of the Sayaks remained impassive, but all eyes turned at once to him. Iskander, leaning against the wall, played with a gold necklace at his throat.

"You made a pledge," he responded softly.

"Have not broken it, Iskander—" "Speak not in English," warned the Arab, "for these others will suspect and grow angry."

Swinging about, Donovan held Iskander's eyes with his own.

"Scion of Tahir, you, like myself, have felt the evil of the slave dealer. Once a vulture entered the valley, sinking his talons into the hearts of Sayak fathers and brothers—"

"Aye," cried Sayak. "He was a wily, base, beyond words, such as Don—"

"Peace!" barked Iskander. "Who should know the Vulture better than I—a fathering and a husband? Fool! Will you not heed the wisdom of Donovan Khan who has shared our salt?"

The murmur subsided and the warriors settled back passively, only their dark eyes followed every motion of the white man.

At a single throw Donovan cast the weight of his influence against the uncertainty and suspicion of the Sayaks.

"Three years ago during the Great War I came to you when the mullahs of the Turks and the Tartars urged the Sayaks to join the standard of war against—Sirdar (the English government). I asked you to keep the peace."

"Aye," nodded Mahmoud, "the hadji of the temple added his voice to yours. Then, the Sayaks kept the peace, and because of the fear of Yakka Arlik, the tribes of Central Asia did likewise. Yet the agreement was—"

"That I was not to leave the Hills until your enemy, the man you called the Vulture, was hunted down. And at Srinagar I learned his name."

At this every Sayak straightened and complete silence fell.

"The Vulture and the Alghan, Abbas Abad, were the leaders of the slave caravans. And the Vulture was the real head of the slave merchants. He was once a Russian officer; stripped of his rank because of an intrigue with a Russian woman. Now, concealed behind this name, he directs the activities of his thousand servants, from Kashgar to Samarkand. Oh, he is powerful. When he despoiled the hill villages of our friends—"

"We followed close upon the dust of the going. So spoke a Sayak, a Pathan chieftain, who had been silent until now."

"Aye," assented Donovan, "from the Mustangh Ata to the Caucasus. Yet he escaped us. The mire of the desert sold him the aid. Lawless Tartar and Russian detachments, leaderless after the end of the great war, took his gold for their services. And he is the friend of Esad Pasha. When fear of the Sayaks came upon him, he fled to America."

"But now he is once more in the hills," murmured Iskander. "And our vengeance—"

"You stood within sword's reach of him in Srinagar, son of Tahir. The Vulture is Money, the Russian."

"Ah!"

The Arab started, and his hand went to his scimitar hilt. Fifty eyes turned to him. "Dares the return to the scene of his crime, to Yakka Arlik?" he questioned harshly, probing the open countenance of the white man.

"Desire for the white khannum brought him."

A murmur that was like a sigh answered Donovan. "A-a-h!" Iskander drew his scimitar and threw away the scabbard. "It was written. On it was written. Now the pursuit of blood will be ended and the mirror of my honor will be cleansed."

"What did you learn at the bridge below the mosque?" Where went the riders who entered Yakka Arlik?"

"Dono-van Khan," the man growled, blinking at the light, "the Sayak guard at the bridge was slain when he opposed their flight. Yet the venerable hadji who was watching from the tower of the mosque saw the riders go, not across the bridge, but up the gorge toward—"

"The tower?" Donovan cut in crisply.

"As I thought, the Vulture has taken flight to his empty nest. Mahmoud, who bet he would do that?"

"Do you believe now?" Donovan swung savagely around to face Mahmoud. "Have I spoken the truth?"

"As one man the Sayaks answered. 'We believe. We have never doubted.'"

"A figure was advancing toward the tower. Edith saw that it was John Donovan."

He had taken only a few steps before a patrol challenged and he halted with a pair of riflemen examining him. Presently the trio began to walk back to the Kurgan. Donovan wore a sun helmet, and was immaculate in his flannels and white jacket beside the stout, dingy natives. He strode ahead carelessly, hands in his pockets.

Edith had rejoiced at sight of the man who loved her, and she had been of the wilderness of rocks. Her heart beat a brief refrain of exultation. Then she bit her lip and repressed a cry of distress.

Apparently Donovan was unarmed. He seemed to take no notice of the two guards. The light of the newly risen sun was dead in his eyes. And he was coming straight into the trap Money had set for him and the Sayaks.

The Russian himself was more than a little surprised. Quickly he scanned the nearby woods beyond the rocks, where there was no sign of further movement. "An Englishman, that's certain," he muttered to himself. "No one else would walk or dress like that."

Before assenting or refusing, the Arab consulted the other Sayaks with a glance. One, a swaggering Alghan whose evil-smelling wool was bedded with a priceless sword, rose and left the room.

From the road outside came a clatter of hoofs. Donovan was gazing thoughtfully into the fire. "The white woman has left Yakka Arlik," he said.

The faces of the Sayaks remained impassive, but all eyes turned at once to him. Iskander, leaning against the wall, played with a gold necklace at his throat.

"You made a pledge," he responded softly.

"Have not broken it, Iskander—" "Speak not in English," warned the Arab, "for these others will suspect and grow angry."

THERE'S MY SPEECH— CLEAR, CONCISE AND UNDERSTANDABLE— I'M NOT TRYING TO RIDE INTO CONGRESS WITH A LOT OF FANCY WORDS THAT ONLY A FEW CAN UNDERSTAND.

I'VE LAID IT DOWN IN THE PLAINEST LANGUAGE THAT I KNOW— I DON'T WANT TO DECEIVE THEM WITH A FOG OF WORDS—

I'LL MAKE THESE FOUR FLUSHERS COME CLEAN— THEY RIDICULED AND BELITTLED ME— THEY SENT OUT INVITATIONS FOR TROUBLE— AND AS YOU SOW SO SHALL YE REAP—

I'M A KIND AND INDULGENT FATHER— A CONSIDERATE, THOUGHTFUL AND LOVING HUSBAND— A FAIR AND GOOD FRIEND OF HONORABLE MEN— I DARE THESE POLITICAL MAVERICKS TO STAND ON THE ROSTRUM WITH ME IN PUBLIC DEBATE— THESE SHORT-HORNED WITH A HALF-INCH BRAIN AND A FOUR-INCH MOUTH—

here. Now, who?" he glanced at Edith, then peered at the visitor. "By the sacred head of the Prophet, it's Donovan himself without a beard! I didn't know him at first. Look here!" He gripped the girl's arm viciously. "Silence, you hear? Not a word out of you! Or I'll order my men to shoot you!"

Donovan took not the slightest notice of the other's insulting remark. He set with some inferior turquoise. Donovan laid it on the table, rolled into a ball.

"You remember this?" His words were crisp. "Well, perhaps Abbas does. It belonged to the wife of Iskander in Tahir. He bought it back in the Kashgar bazaar. And he necklace, Donovan tossed it, still rolled tightly, into Edith's lap.

"Presents from such a man as Iskander have a meaning," he said as Donovan had not looked at her. Money took the words to heart. The girl glanced up with awakened curiosity. Abbas would have picked up the necklace but the Englishman turned to him sharply.

"Mahmoud is coming for you, Abbas," he said in Turkish. "Are you ready?"

The simple speech caused the Alghan to draw a long breath and to step back instinctively. Edith wondered whether it was surprise at being addressed in his own tongue. But she remembered the fear that had flashed into the face of the Sirt upon the mountain side. The name of the physician seemed to carry a potent spell.

CHAPTER X

A rickety table had been drawn against the wall of the teakwood room. On two boxes, facing each other across this table, sat John Donovan and Money. A guard stood at the door.

Near the stove Edith had seated herself, with Abbas at her side.

"And so you want to know what I am doing with this woman in the castle?" Money stroked his mustache complacently and surveyed his visitor. Donovan had hardly looked at Edith. He sat erect, hands clasped over crossed knees. He had been released from the bandage and his tranquil gaze searched the opposite wall, without in the least attempting to watch his enemy.

"Well, I will tell you," Money rested solid shoulders against the teakwood, his nervous hand straying about his revolver holster. "It's none of your damn business."

Lower lip thrust out, eyes narrowed, he surveyed Donovan. Money, also, had guessed that his enemy came to the Kurgan hoping that he would not be recognized.

"Suppose," ventured Donovan, "I should make it so?"

"Oh, fine words. Tell me who you are and what you want."

"Answering your question, Money," he went on, "I have come to ask Miss Rand to marry me."

Sheer surprise made the Russian move. Edith's glance flew to Donovan.

"STOP THAT CAR!"

"I haven't done a bit of work, dear! You'd better go now or the doctor may get angry!"

"DOCTOR KAPUSL WOULDN'T BE ANGRY WITH ME MY PET IF YOU KNOW ALL THE WORLD LOVES A LOVER!"

"WELL, HERE'S ONE BIRD WHO'S AN EXCEPTION TO TH' RULE!!"

"GREAT SCOTT! HOW CAN I GET A BONE IN SUCH A SMALL GARDEN?"

"STEALING AN AUTO"

"HE HEARD FATHER SAY I COULD HAVE THE CAR— THEN HE TOOK IT."

"YOU HAD IT YESTIDDY?"

"PUT THEM ON THE TABLE, ALECK."

"HERE ARE THE EGGS, MAMA."

"DO EGGS GROW?"

"NO, SON— CHICKENS LAY THEM."

"WHAT'S IN THAT CAN? TOMATOES?"

"WHICH CAN?"

"THAT LITTLE CAN—"

"OH, THAT'S MILK— CONDENSED MILK—"

"OH! DO COWS LAY THEM?"

Eighty-Year Old Credits Dancing For Good Health

BY RODNEY DUTCHER. United News Staff Correspondent. Chicago, October 24.—The royal road to the century mark leads up and down the ballroom floor. This road is recommended by Augustus E. Bourne, veteran Chicago dancing master who, during the past 80 years, has taught several generations of Chicago's social luminaries to trip the light fantastic gracefully, and having failed to lose any of his nimbleness at the age of 80, expects to be alive to join the ranks of the centenarians in another 20 years.

Eighty years unattested by rheumatism or aches and pains of any sort, it is attributed by the aged dancing master to the exercise involved in the great amount of dancing he has done, and Bourne also thinks his lessons have done a great deal to keep active and pains away from such leading families here as the Pullmans, the Philip Sheridans, the Armours, the Potter Palmer and the Kimball families.

Hair Is Young. A reported who called on old Mr. Bourne Monday found that dancing had not prevented the whitening of his hair, but otherwise his appearance could almost be called youthful.

"Yes, I certainly feel young," the dancing master said. "The entertainment and the music are the best of nerve tonics, while the physical movements can be depended upon to keep up the circulation. It's good for the old people, too many of whom sit around just as if they were waiting to die. No wonder they're afflicted with rheumatism and other troubles that afflict them as they advance in age."

Regrets Old Dances. Association with children in his juvenile classes has also helped to keep Bourne young, he thinks. He has been teaching correct dancing to children since 1897, when he opened his studio here. That the aged instructor would lament the passing of the old dances which have been almost superseded by the fox-trot, was inevitable, but he thinks he will live to see their revival. "Ah," he said, with a reminiscent twinkle in his eyes, "the good old quadrille, the galop, the two-step, the Virginia reel and the rest of them are all gone. But they will come back some day. They say history repeats itself, and those good old dances will return."

Mrs. Bourne, who helped build up her husband's fashionable school, is four years his junior and in equal good health.

Food Production Is Task Ahead For Scientists

(Copyright, 1922, for The Constitution.)

Schenectady, N. Y., October 24.—Production of food by chemical or biological means is an objective to which scientists must work if the future of the world is to be spared a great food shortage, according to Dr. Charles Shennett.

"The food problem," he declared in an interview with the United News, "is after all an energy problem because the food we eat is converted in the body into heat energy and mechanical energy. But the body is very inefficient in the kind of fuel it can use, because it can only use the seeds of certain plants and the productivity of these fields is extremely low as already has been shown."

"In raising wheat, etc., two functions are really performed. The first is collecting the energy of the sunlight, which is done by the plant, and then storing it as chemical energy in such form that the human body can use it as food."

"Modern industry has reached its very high efficiency due to subdivision and specialization of operations, and so, in using the energy of nature, much higher efficiency might be reached in food production by separating the two operations of collecting the energy of the sunlight and converting it into food."

"We would take the energy supplied by our energy crops, which explained yesterday, and use that for producing food. Such production of food would be accomplished directly by chemical means, or could be biologically accomplished—the latter method being the more promising one. It means using living organisms for conversion of chemical energy into a form we can use as food."

"Alcohol is made biochemically, through the chemical action of the micro-organisms of yeast. During the late war Germany began using this method of producing food by the growth of micro-organisms and it is quite reasonable to believe that the necessary micro-organisms can be developed which will convert the material supplied to them by the energy crops of our fields into food products."

Sibley Will Address Atlanta Presbytery At Meeting Today

The one hundred and twelfth session of the Presbytery of Atlanta will convene at a two-day's meeting at the Philadelphia Presbyterian church, Wednesday and Thursday.

Wednesday's meeting will be featured by an address by Judge Sibley, of Atlanta, at 3 o'clock, and an address by Rev. Homer McMillan, of Atlanta, at 7:30 in the evening.

Savannah Judiciary System Badly Hit By Dengue Fever

Savannah, Ga., October 24.—Dengue fever has just about knocked out the judiciary of Savannah. Judge P. W. Meldrum, of the superior court, who is convalescent from an attack of the disease, came down yesterday to receive the presentations of the grand jury, but has retired to his country home to recuperate.

Freeman, of the city court of Savannah, is also confined to his home as is Chief Justice John Rourke, of the municipal court.

They are both dengue victims. All judges summoned to serve in the courts have been excused, and the judicial systems are cleared of the dengue effects.

GEORGE M. DICKEY FOUND DEAD MONDAY

George M. Dickey, well-known College Park citizen, of 305 East Hawthorne street, was found dead in bed Monday morning at his home. It is believed his death resulted from a stroke of paralysis, from which he had been suffering for some time.

Mr. Dickey was formerly connected with J. L. Dickey, Jr. & Co., insurance agents, and his death compelled his retirement, several years ago.

He was a member of the Masonic lodge at Mineral Bluff and the College Park Baptist church. He is survived by his wife, who was formerly Miss Minnie Reeder, of Nashville, Ark.; one son, J. Rucker Dickey, of Chicago; one daughter, Mrs. W. A. Wilson and Miss Eula Cooper, of Atlanta, and Mrs. S. R. Rice, of Moultrie, Ga.

MARTHA ANN COOPER DIES AT AGE OF 81

Mrs. Martha Ann Cooper, 81, of 154 Lulu avenue, died at the residence Tuesday. The body will be sent Thursday to Flower Branch for funeral and interment.

She is survived by four sons, J. B. Cooper, Charles Cooper, of Atlanta, and W. W. Cooper, Flower Branch, Ga. Three daughters, Mrs. W. A. Wilson and Miss Eula Cooper, of Atlanta, and Mrs. S. R. Rice, of Moultrie, Ga.

FRANK COMER DROPS DEAD AT SAVANNAH

Savannah, Ga., October 24.—Frank W. Comer, proprietor of a modern stock farm at Millhaven, died there this morning en route from his office to his home. Acute indigestion is believed to have been the cause. He was the son of John B. Comer, a nephew of B. B. Comer, former ex-governor and United States senator from Alabama.

Enfauila, Ala., October 24.—(Special.)—Funeral services for Frank Comer, son of Colonel G. L. Comer, of this city who died suddenly Tuesday at the home of his uncle, E. T. Comer at Millhaven, Ga., will be held here Wednesday. He was a nephew of former Governor B. B. Comer, of Birmingham. Surviving are his widow and two children, W. T. Comer, of Atlanta, is a brother of the deceased.

Kaiser to Wed Bride Attired In Regal Garb

Berlin, October 24.—A regal gown fit to keep the marble halls of an emperor's palace, will adorn the Princess Hermine of Schönohe-Carolath when she stands before the altar with Wilhelm Hohenzollern, once ruler of the German empire.

However humble the surroundings of this wedding as compared to what they might have been, the principal at least will dress the part which each, for a time, was destined by fate to play.

The bride's wedding gown is of light purple velvet—velvet in keeping with the German custom which decrees that a woman, once married, does not wear white upon the occasion of a second marriage. It is draped with rich velvet and chiffon and is without lace. It has a long train. Final fittings have been made and the princess has expressed delight with it.

In addition to her wedding gown, other creations in the trousseau of the princess are being made by Baron Drecoll, who has branches in New York, London and Paris. Drecoll made part of Princess Mary's wedding trousseau.

Gowns ordered by Princess Hermine include a striking yellow tulle gown with white lace and a heavy woolen walking suit. The best fitters and tailors have been at work on her outfit, several having gone to Sauer for the fittings.

Friends of both the ex-kaiser and his bride have been striving to keep the details of the trousseau secret. They feared, they said, bolshevist propaganda to the effect that the "imperial" family was practicing super-extravagance while the common Germans starve.

SMITH NAMED HEAD OF GEORGIA ROOFERS

Macon, Ga., October 24.—At the closing session of the Georgia Roofers' Manufacturers' club, H. Dixon Smith, of Seale, Ala., was elected president.

Hugh Thurston, of Thomas, Ga., secretary-treasurer; G. L. Sinclair, of Box Springs, Ga.; J. A. Cook, of Opelika, Ala.; and C. C. Hines, of Merriweather, S. C., vice presidents. The club meets here again December 7.

To Decide If Peeping Thru Fence for Shine Is Illegal Search

Savannah, Ga., October 24.—When an officer looks through the crack of a fence and sees whisky on a man's premises is he guilty of illegal search? This is the unique point put up to a United States commissioner here today. On June 27 "dry" officers peeped through the crack of a fence on the premises of W. H. Haar and claimed to have seen large quantities of whisky. As a result W. H. Haar, Fred Haar, Jr., John Haar, Frank Kramer, Charles Renfro, Frank Jones and Alphonso Irvin were all arrested charged with violating the prohibition law.

BAPTISTS OPEN MEET AT AMERICUS TODAY

Americus, Ga., October 24.—(Special.)—Three hundred delegates representing 52 Baptist congregations will be in Americus Wednesday to attend the convention of Friendship Baptist association. It will be the 64th annual session of the association.

Dr. Carl W. Minor, of Americus, is moderator, and Joe Smith, of Valdosta, is clerk. Dr. Arch C. Cree, secretary-treasurer of the executive board of the Georgia Baptist convention, will address the members of the association Tuesday, and a number of other prominent Georgia Baptists will also speak before the convention.

JUDGE H. B. STRANGE REPORTED IMPROVED

Statesboro, Ga., October 24.—Judge H. B. Strange, judge of the Ogeechee circuit of the superior court, who was stricken while on the bench charging the jury yesterday, is reported as somewhat improved today. He has conversed with the members of his family and the only serious feature of his condition now is a slight impediment in his speech. Judge James B. Park, of Greensboro, judge of the Ocmulgee circuit superior court, is

GEORGE TO ADDRESS CLUBS OF AMERICUS

Americus, Ga., October 24.—(Special.)—Senator-elect W. F. George, of Vienna, will come to Americus Thursday night to address the three civic clubs here. Americus Kiwanians will be host of the occasion, with members of the Rotary and Lions clubs as their guests. Besides Judge George, a number of other notable Georgians have been invited.

Julio Brazear, an official Kiwanis international entertainer, will be among the guests. Brazear, a native of Toronto, Canada, has an international reputation as an entertainer.
